Texas Oil Well Blazes

—AP Wirephoto

Searing flames and dense smoke is shown rising from the Pan American No. 1 A. L. Holley oil well, 25 miles northeast of Big Spring, Texas, last night. The big well caught fire the night of June 10, killing a geologist who was passing. It was still burning yesterday as efforts to quell the blaze were repeatedly unsuccessful. Observers said flames shot 500 feet into the air and the smoke billowed up to 1,000 feet.

Woodworkers' Strike Called Off As Union Accepts Final Offer

Not Appealing Rate Increase

VANCOUVER, June 14 (CP).—The City of Vancouver announced today it won't appeal an interim telephone rate increase awarded the British Columbia Telephone Company.

Mayor Charles Thompson said since no reasons have been given for the interim increase, there is no basis for an appeal either to the Governor-in-Council or the Supreme Court of Canada.

Yields Post

PRETORIA, South Africa, June 14 (CP).—Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts, a world figure for half a century, tonight gave up his post as South African Parliamentary Opposition leader. He lies gravely ill at his farm near here.

The 80-year-old Smuts, stricken with pneumonia after his birthday celebrations in May, handed over his post to Jacobus Strauss, acting leader of the opposition United Party.

Strauss, 49, has been regarded as one of the strong men of the United Party ever since his appointment to the Cabinet in 1944.

Union Shop Denied, Security Bolstered

British Columbia coastal lumber operators worrying over the fate of their current lucrative markets and 32,000 workers wondering how far their last pay cheques would have to stretch heaved a gigantic sigh of relief early this morning, following simultaneous union-management announcements that the threatened strike was off.

And the rest of the province joined with them.

Report that the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) had accepted the 11th hour settlement proposal made Tuesday by the operators was confirmed here shortly after midnight by local union officials and by a spokesman for Forest Industrial Relations, employers' representatives, over long distance telephone from Vancouver.

TO NOTIFY LOCALS

A formal union statement signed by J. Stewart Alsbury, British Columbia I.W.A. president, and Tom MacKenzie, union policy committee chairman, said the district negotiating committee had agreed to "notify all locals and membership in the coastal district that the strike scheduled for June 15 is hereby canceled."

"We believe the settlement is in the best interests of both the membership and the people of British Columbia," said Mr. Alsbury. "It is a great step ahead for the union."

Said R. V. Stuart, operators' spokesman: "It is a source of satisfaction to employers in the forest industries of British Columbia that the very extensive concessions they have made in wage negotiations this year have prevented this province being injured by an industry-wide stoppage in its most vital industry."

Forest Industrial Relations would recommend acceptance of the proposed terms to all 163 companies involved "at the earliest possible moment," Mr. Stuart said.

Similar course of action is being followed by I.W.A. heads, although local officials indicated last night that some calls ordering men back to work in remote areas of the Province might not beat the 7 a.m. strike deadline.

The settlement provides for a 12½-cent-an-hour increase, compared with the 17 cents originally sought by the union and the nine and five-cent boosts recommended in the unanimous conciliation report rejected earlier by the union.

The maintenance of membership clause, which the I.W.A. took in place of union shop after a bitter verbal battle, means that all woodworkers now members of the I.W.A. or who become members after signing of the new contract, must retain their membership as a condition of employment during the life of the agreement.

Also provided is the straight 40-hour work week.

Ratification of the agreement by both employees and employers is now expected to be only a formality.

Breath-taking suspense led up to the announcement of agreement last night.

Sessions begun Tuesday between Labor Relations Board, management and union officials, adjourned at 8 p.m. and reconvened at 10 p.m.

Meanwhile, union, company and newspaper offices throughout the Province were flooded with telephone calls from thousands of anxious residents awaiting the outcome of the last-minute talks.

Although definite word was not available last night, it was expected that the settlement would also apply to Bloedel, Stewart and Welch, Ltd., which this year negotiated independently of other concerns, and their 3,000 Island employees.

Residents of Usk Flee Skeena River

VANCOUVER, June 14 (CP).—First evacuations before the British Columbia 1950 flood threat came today in the Northern Interior as the clear, turbulent waters of the Skeena River chased the 100 residents of Usk to higher ground.

Elsewhere, rivers swelled by a prolonged hot spell over the snow-stacked mountains inched upward against the dikes.

In the Lower Fraser Valley, dike patrols started last night and will be strengthened tonight. The Fraser, villain in a $30,000,000 flood in 1948, flipped away $17,000 worth of rock at Agassiz and trucks worked today to replace the material protecting one of the new dikes erected since then.

Nicomen Island, above Mission, is patroled by dike watchers, with the danger level of 20 feet expected at Mission by Friday.

At Penticton, civic employees tonight began sandbagging of Penticton Creek at two weak points as the Spring freshet began in earnest.

The move was described as a precautionary measure.

Patrols are being maintained on a 24-hour basis along the creek and 400 volunteer flood fighters are standing by in case the creek overflows into property areas.

Other danger points in the province are Princeton, where the Tulameen is licking at lower-town houses, and Lillooet, where a bridge over Lower Cayoosh Creek was carried away. Several ranches were isolated. Lillooet is about 120 miles north of Vancouver.

At Usk, 460 miles north of here and 75 miles inland from Prince Rupert, the 100 residents retraced their flight of two years ago. The site was also flooded in 1936. At nearby Hazelton, men worked through the night erecting a dike guarding the lower part of the town.

The annual run-off of provincial rivers has been about 15 per cent behind normal with more snow than usual in the hinterlands. Coolish weather this Spring caused only moderate stream flow and the hot spell, which shows no indication of letting up, started the sudden rise.

In Spokane, Wash., the on-again off-again Northwest flood danger was back "on" today as inland rivers surged to their highest level of the season after a steady two-day rise.

But it appeared that the new threat may be short-lived. Weatherman Robert McComb said the rate of rise was slowing down at most points and the trend is expected to continue today.

The Okanogan River near Tonasket was reported to be already spilling over its banks. That report came from the army engineers.

Speed Invites Traffic Deaths

AT 60 miles an hour, the effect of a car striking a solid obstruction is exactly the same as if it were driven from the roof of a ten-story building.

At this speed the car is traveling 88 feet every second.

If injured in an accident at 60 miles an hour, the driver is eight times more likely to die of his injuries than if it had happened at 20 miles an hour.

Intimidation Claim Jails Trial Figure

QUEBEC, June 14 (CP).—The woman who placed the time-bomb that killed 23 persons in an airliner over Sault au Cochon last September 9, was held without bail tonight, charged with intimidating witnesses.

Mrs. Arthur Pitre, black-haired sister of Genereux Ruest, who is charged with murder in the airlines disaster, sobbed and shrieked loudly as she was taken from a corridor near the courtroom and carried to cells by two burly Provincial Police officers.

The arrest, ordered from the bench by Judge Achille Pettigrew, climaxed the first day of Ruest's preliminary hearing on the charge of manufacturing a time-bomb to blow up the airliner and kill Mrs. J. Albert Guay.

J. Albert Guay, the small-time Quebec jeweler who plotted the whole affair to get rid of his wife, marry a young waitress and collect insurance money, was convicted of murder in the plot and sentenced to be hanged.

Arrest of Mrs. Pitre, 41, was ordered after a frail, pale girl in a black coat testified Mrs. Pitre "threatened" her in the witness room adjoining the court this morning.

The girl, Marguerite Lachance, said she was the "friend" of Edouard Ruest, a brother of Genereux, and told the court that as Ruest hobbled on his crutches to the prisoner's dock this morning he passed near her and whispered: "Ferme la gueule" (a vulgar way of saying, "Keep your mouth shut").

Mrs. Jean Paul Bergeron, another acquaintance of the Ruest family, testified that both she and the Lachance girl were threatened by Mrs. Pitre in the witness room. She said that the girl was "very frightened" because Mrs. Pitre had said, "I'm going to kill a few of you."

Votes Favor Labor's Tax On Gasoline

LONDON, June 15 (Thursday) (AP).—The Government defeated the Conservative Opposition last night and early today on six votes on the new, higher gasoline tax.

Its margin ranged from 11 to 14 votes. Labor has a working majority of only eight in the House of Commons. Many members were absent on both sides. Liberals voted with the Opposition.

The main Conservative attack consisted of a move to void the tax increase. The Government beat this down, 302 to 288. It then defeated a series of other amendments, including one which would have exempted from the tax boost gasoline used in invalid motorchairs.

OPPOSITION CHARGES

The Opposition contended that the increased tax would hit industry and the middle classes, and that it showed an "anti-motorist" bias by the Government.

It also accused the Government of trying to divert traffic from the roads, where a section of motor transport is still privately owned, to the nationalized railways.

Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, retorted that to influence traffic in this way it would have been necessary to increase the tax by three, four or five shillings instead of by ninepence.

The ninepenny increase, he said, was imposed to get relief for the lower rates of income tax.

Peru Says Rebellion Localized

LIMA, Peru, June 14 (AP).—The Peruvian Government announced tonight that disorders had erupted in the major southern City of Arequipa but claimed the rebellion had been localized there.

A communique said the insurgent elements were headed by Francisco J. Mostajo, who had sought to run as an opposition candidate for vice-president in the election scheduled for July.

(The Arequipa radio, in a broadcast heard in La Paz, Bolivia, said a revolution had broken out throughout southern Peru. One report said four persons were killed and a number of others wounded in clashes with police. Bolivian newspapers said the casualties might be much higher and said a violent battle had taken place between civilians on one side and army and police units on the other.)

The Government communique blamed the outbreak on politicians interested in disturbing the forthcoming election including elements of the outlawed Aprista and Communist parties.

Second Plane Lost in Gulf

PARIS, June 15 (Wednesday) (AP).—A four-engined Air France airliner crashed in the Persian Gulf last night with 45 persons aboard, it was announced today.

The crash occurred near Bahrein Island at approximately the same place where 45 persons were lost Monday in the crash of another Air France plane.

First reports said 11 persons are known to have been rescued so far in the second crash.

Both planes were en route to Paris from Saigon, Indo-China.

Ferry Run Suspended By Defect

BRENTWOOD, June 14.—The 106-foot M.V. Brentwood was put out of commission for more than 24 hours, when its transmission failed and it rammed the ferry slip here at 11 a.m. today.

Comdr. R. N. Taylor, Verdier Avenue, said he was bringing the vessel into the slip at a slow speed and when he called for astern power the transmission failed.

Neither the new wharf or the ferry hull was damaged. An eyewitness to the accident said the ferry struck the wharf with "an awful bang."

It is understood that necessary parts for repair of the transmission will be brought here from Vancouver. The service is expected to be restored by noon Thursday.

Reds Seek Support From Ruhr

FRANKFURT, June 14 (AP).—Germany's Communists plunged today into a feverish campaign to win support in the mighty Ruhr industrial valley.

They announced:

1. The imminent arrival of Communist dignitaries from the Soviet zone to help win votes in elections next Sunday for a Ruhr state legislature.

2. A "peace rally" in Essen next September 1—a rally the Communists hope to make a replica of their Russian-protected Whitsuntide march in Berlin.

The announcements were regarded in some Allied quarters as possibly the start of a Communist attempt to stir up discontent in the industrial heart of Western Germany.

On the other hand, some observers believed the Communists were merely trying to hold their grip on thousands of followers who recently have been losing sympathy with their cause.

MILLIONS OF POSTERS

In the last week 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 Communist posters have been splashed at night across the length and breadth of the sprawling Ruhr.

They demanded the withdrawal of American, British and French occupation troops.

The strength of the party will be strengthened Sunday when 9,000,000 Germans will elect a legislature in the Ruhr state of North Rhine-Wesphalia.

These voters represent one-quarter of the entire voting population of Western Germany.

End of July Should See Parking Meters Paid For

The city is expecting to pay off the remainder of the money owing on the parking meters by the end of next month.

Starting August 1, every penny dropped into a parking meter will be a penny for the civic coffers. Since the meters were installed late in 1947—the company from which they were purchased has been receiving 50 per cent of the "take" as the city paid off purchase and installation costs.

COST $68,027

Cost of some 1,000 meters (there are 985 on city streets today) was $68,027.05.

To the end of last month the company had received on account as one-half share of receipts, $64,-794.87.

Still owing is $3,732.13.

Since parking meter receipts are high during the Summer months it is expected the remainder of the debt can be retired with usual monthly payments for June and July.

The city's receipts from parking meters in 1948—after paying 50 per cent to company—were $23,462.06. Net receipts for 1949 were $23,630.61.

Maintenance expenditures in 1948 were $9,506.24, compared with $11,-710.63 in 1949.

Reds Easing Attack Threat

HONGKONG, June 14 (AP).—China's Communists have eased their invasion threat to war-torn Indo-China, lately bolstered by promises of American military and economic aid. An estimated 200,000 Red troops have moved from the border to east-coast Formosa springboards.

This mass movement of troops away from one of Asia's hottest spots in the cold war is noted by men here whose job is to weigh and evaluate often-conflicting reports—public and private—from the mainland.

Major Debate in Sight On Secrets Act Changes

OTTAWA, June 14 (CP).—A major Commons debate on Canada's counter-espionage facilities and activities loomed tonight after the Government disclosed it had decided to go ahead with a bill to amend the Official Secrets Act.

Justice Minister Garson gave notice amendments are coming up for the act that was the basis for Canada's spy prosecutions of 1946.

This first revision of the law since those trials will open the door wide for a full discussion of its powers and penalties and what the Government has been doing to check on activities that might be prosecuted under it.

There is speculation that the Government may be planning to extend the act's maximum penalty beyond the present seven years in penitentiary. However, rather than a sweeping overhaul of the law, the amendments are expected to plug certain loopholes.

One is expected to give the Government the right to prosecute on their return home those Canadians who violate the law while outside the country.

The act establishes broad presumptions of guilt against persons for having phone numbers or for calling on persons reasonably suspected of being agents of a foreign power, and against an accused for his known character. It allows prosecution for giving of confidential information to unauthorized persons.

The amendments come late in a session that has been occupied more than once with debate on screening of civil servants and about the Canadian angles in the Dr. Klaus Fuchs atomic-spy case in Britain.

U.S. Estimate Disclosed

Thinks Russia Will Have Six Atomic Bombs Soon

NEW YORK, June 14 (INS).—An American military spokesman said today that on the basis of secretly-gathered information the United States estimates Russia will have six atomic bombs by September 23 and be able to produce 25 more in the following year.

The statement 'on Russia's accomplishments in the atomic weapons field came from Navy Commander William T. Greenhalgh, a professor at the Industrial College of the armed forces.

He said the estimate is based on detailed information recently obtained from behind the iron curtain.

Commander Greenhalgh emphasized that he did not "know" how many A-bombs the Russians have or will have. He laid stress on the fact he himself is not a scientist, so could not know how Russia is dealing with the technical problems involved.

Figures on U.S. atomic bomb production have never been disclosed, but estimates have ranged as high as several hundred.

Commander Greenhalgh also disclosed that about 20,000,000 Russians are believed to be violently and bitterly opposed to the Communist party and government.

"These people," he said, "have either been successful in concealing their true feelings or are locked up in prison camps."

Commander Greenhalgh credited the U.S.S.R. with 19,000 operational warplanes, backed by a reserve of 10,000 more, and aircraft factories which could produce 60,000 annually.

Convicted Man Files Appeal

VANCOUVER, June 14 (CP).—Sentenced to be hanged August 30, for the slaying of an elderly Chinese gardener at Vernon, 31-year-old Joseph Arthur Ouellette today appealed his conviction to the British Columbia Court of Appeal.

Fort George Guns to Boom Again

—Central Press Canadian

An aerial view of restored Fort George at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., which will be the scene of a colorful ceremony June 18, marking the formal opening of a pioneer exhibit. As part of the ceremony for the event, cannon fire will thunder across the Niagara River for the first time in more than 135 years, when a friendship salute is exchanged between cannons at Fort Niagara, the U.S. fort which once guarded the entrance to the river, and the British fort, which was destroyed by American forces during the war of 1812-14 and restored about ten years ago by the Niagara Parks Commission.

News Agency Says Peet Involved in Spy Setup

FRANKFURT, June 14 (INS).—The German news agency D.P.A. charged tonight that John Peet, the British newsman who suddenly went over to the Communist camp Monday night, was one of the "contacts" in the atomic spy set-up involving Dr. Klaus Fuchs and Harry Gold.

An agency dispatch from Hamburg quoted what it termed "informed sources" as saying Peet was linked with Dr. Fuchs, German-born Briton imprisoned as an atomic spy, and Gold, the Philadelphia chemist recently arrested as a "contact" man of Fuchs.

Fuchs is serving a 14-year jail term and Gold was arrested and indicted as a confessed relayer of Anglo-American atomic secrets to Russia after F.B.I. agents quizzed Fuchs.

(When Gold was indicted by a Brooklyn Federal Grand Jury last week, two mystery men known only as "John" and "Sam" were indicted with him. Officials said they had no information as to the identity of either.

Peet, 34-year-old former Berlin chief of the Reuters News Agency, earlier this week entered East Berlin, asked for asylum, and denounced the Western powers as "warmongers," the familiar charge made by Russians.

(A Reuters spokesman said his organization has no record that Peet ever was in the United States. Peet is known to have worked for the British Government in Palestine before joining Reuters after the war. Before that he fought with the International Brigade against Franco's Nationalists during the Spanish Civil War.)

Vast, Mysterious Haze Baffles Meteorologists

HONOLULU, June 14 (INS).—A vast and strange haze blanketed the Pacific today, shrouding Hawaii and an area of more than a million square miles and reaching as far west as Wake Island.

The Honolulu Weather Bureau at first reported the haze was composed mostly of salt evaporated from the ocean but later admitted its experts were still puzzled about the contents of the mysterious cloud. The weather bureau's original diagnosis caused the haze to be dubbed "smalt."

Tests proved the cloud contained no radioactive elements such as might result from an atomic bomb explosion.

VOLCANO

Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, Hawaiian volcanologist, said sulphur dioxide fumes from erupting Mauna Loa were partially responsible for the haze. The Hawaiian volcano has been erupting for more than a week.

The cloud hampered aviation transportation, limiting visibility to two miles and forcing planes to "fly blind."

The weather bureau said that strong winds which might dissipate the haze were not expected for at least 36 hours.

The haze, the first of its kind in Hawaii's recorded history, caused some to suggest that the islands should be called a "tropical Pittsburgh."

Geiger counters were exposed to the unwelcome haze by Dr. George O. Burr, scientist at the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' experimental station. He said the devices have shown no signs of radiation such as might be caused by an explosion at the Eniwetok atomic weapons proving grounds in the Far Pacific.

ATOMIC SPECULATION

There had been some speculation that an atomic blast might have caused the "smalt."

Airplanes arriving and departing from Honolulu on the busy trans-Pacific run were forced to use instruments in the area of the islands. The cloud layer reportedly reached to an altitude of 8,000 feet.

Disappointed tourists were able to see not more than two miles off the shore of famed Waikiki Beach and the local residents talked of nothing else except the "smalt."

All kinds of explanations for the haze were offered seriously and jokingly by various persons.

CITY LIMITS

An amateur scientist speculated that the haze was a chemical invention designed to spread a protective blanket over cities and safeguard them from atomic bombing. He suggested that the first test of the chemical was made to coincide with the current visit to Hawaii of Defence Secretary Louis Johnson and Gen. Omar N. Bradley.

Someone else suggested that Southern California's smog had been transferred to Hawaii because of the visit a year ago of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce to the islands. The fabulous Los Angeles city limits were extended to Hawaii by jokesters at the time.

Daily Fails To Publish Second Day

NEW YORK, June 14 (AP).—The New York World-Telegram and Sun, where 400 editorial and commercial employees are on strike, failed to publish today for the second day.

The American Newspaper Guild (C.I.O.) members quit work yesterday in support of demands for higher wages and other contract benefits. In a new effort to settle the dispute, Federal mediators called a second mediation conference for Friday.

WOULDN'T CROSS LINE

Refusal of the paper's A.F.L. mechanical employees to cross the Guild's picket lines prevented publication yesterday and today of the big afternoon daily, a Scripps-Howard newspaper.

Federal mediators stepped into the dispute late yesterday, but their efforts were fruitless. Both union and company officials announced later they are prepared for a long strike.

A skeleton staff of non-guild workers showed up for work at the paper's afternoon plant. They prepared copy in the semi-deserted newsroom but no printers, stereotypers or pressmen were available to put the paper "to bed."

Some 250 pickets marched in front of the newspaper plant.

PROMOTION PLAN

Executive Secretary Lee B. Wood said he believes the newspaper will recapture all its circulation with the eventual end of the walkout. He said a "big promotion plan" probably will be used to regain readers.

The New York Guild, in support of the 400 strikers, placed a five-per-cent special assessment on the wages of its 7,000 non-striking members. Financial aid also is scheduled to come from the International union.

The guild will pay strike benefits ranging from $25 weekly for single workers to $40 for married men.

Claims More Buying Impossible for U.K.

STE. ANNE DE BELLEVUE, Que., June 14 (CP).—It is a "sheer impossibility" under the present circumstances for Britain to buy more than she now does from Canada, Sir Andrew Jones, head of the British Food Mission in Ottawa, today told the closing banquet of a nutrition conference here.

Sir Andrew said that by the time United States Marshall aid to Britain expires in 1952, the British people "must be able to stand on our own legs, whatever sacrifices we must endure and whatever inconvenience it may cause to others."

EXCLUDE GERMANS

Persons of German ethnic origin are excluded from the aid of the International Refugee Organization.

Woman Prefers Jail Term To Paying Fine for Damage

VANCOUVER, June 14 (CP).—Fifteen days in jail rather than a $25 fine was chosen today by a Vancouver housewife convicted of wilful damage. Mrs. Elsie Gill, 37-year-old laborer's wife, was charged with breaking a $24.96 lamp in a dispute over a $1 refund from Electrical Dealer Jack Koven.

Mrs. Gill said the hotplate element she bought wouldn't work. Koven declined a refund but offered to exchange it for another item of the same value. It was charged Mrs. Gill swept the lamp off a table in the argument.

"I'll take the jail, Your Worship," she said quickly on sentencing. "As you wish," said Magistrate McInnes.

Labor Wins Six Votes On U.K. Gasoline Tax

LONDON, June 14 (AP).—The Labor Party's view of the Schuman plan raised cries of "blundering" in Opposition newspapers today, and brought sharp criticism from Europe's Socialist parties.

Confusion arose among both politicians and editorial writers over a pair of statements closely parallel but differing in emphasis.

Prime Minister Attlee said yesterday his Government wishes to help and not hinder the plan to integrate Europe's coal and steel. Attlee held the door open to future co-operation in the plan, but said Britain could not go into it without knowing more about it.

Earlier the executive committee of the Labor Party—the Prime Minister is an ex-officio member—put out a policy manifesto declaring against a "supra-national authority" as proposed by Foreign Minister Schuman of France.

WANTS SOCIALISM

Further, it contended that European union, economic or political, is impossible unless all European countries adopt the Socialist idea of economic planning: that is, government controls over enterprise.

Meantime, under questioning in the House of Commons today, State Minister Kenneth Younger said Britain intends to try to make "a contribution, if we can, at a later date" to the coal-steel pool. He refused to say what the contribution might be.

"Folly at the helm!" exclaimed the Conservative Daily Graphic. "What a mess the Government have made of their handling of the Schuman proposals! They have blundered from one false position to another. . . . The suspicion is created that the present British Government want a Socialist plan—and will not accept any other."

Some other newspapers, however, described Attlee's position as "prudent."

The Liberal News-Chronicle said the two statements raise the question as to which is the voice of the Labor Government.

In Paris, the central committee of the French Socialist Party expressed "regret" at the Labor Party manifesto.

Women Pilots Defy Weather In Time Race

GREENVILLE, S.C., June 14 (INS).—Only three women pilots overcame a bad weather handicap today to bring to six the total who finished so far in the 2,460-mile, trans-continental "powder puff" air Derby.

A total of 33 women flyers entered the race.

Of the 27 flyers still en route in their tiny planes, 13 are reportedly spending the night at Charleston, S.C., where a thunderstorm kept them grounded at mid-afternoon. The pilots are not allowed to fly at night or on instruments.

Mrs. Mildred Harshman, of Dayton, O., set her Beechcraft Bonanza down at Greenville at 8:36 a.m. E.S.T. At 12:03 p.m., Mrs. Lois Lyons, of John Day, Ore., crossed the finish line.

WENT OFF COURSE

Mary Packard, of Vallejo, Calif., who already has been disqualified and is ineligible for a share in the $5,000 prize money, was the final arrival late in the afternoon. Miss Packard found herself far off course Sunday night at Needles, Calif., soon after the race started in San Diego.

Mrs. Lyons, whose Cessna 195 was trailed across the country by her husband's ship, said she is "pretty sure" she beat her handicap.

The winner of the "elapsed time" race, which is sponsored by the Ninety-Nines, an international women's pilot group, will be determined when the advertised cruising speed of each pilot's ship is compared with the time she spent in the air.

LANGUAGE UNCHANGED

The present Icelandic language is little different to that spoken and written at the time of the country's colonization in the ninth century.

U.S. Counterfeiting Reaches High Level

WASHINGTON, June 14 (INS).—The Secret Service was disclosed today to have told Congress that criminal networks operating out of New York and Chicago are flooding the United States with "more counterfeit money than at any time in the past ten years."

The Senate Appropriations Committee made public testimony given in closed session by Secret Service Chief U. E. Baughman, who asked for 31 additional agents to help solve the counterfeiting problem.

Baughman said United States agents are seizing "phony money" at the rate of $100,000 a month. He declared wartime black marketeers prosecuted for counterfeiting ration stamps are manufacturing fraudulent currency. He added that Denver and Seattle are the only areas comparatively free of counterfeit money.

Meanwhile, the Senate Crime Hunting Committee made ready to study evidence that an interstate gambling syndicate using Western Union leased wires attempted to corrupt managers of the telegraph company's offices.

EVIDENCE PROMISED

Chairman Kefauver (D., Tenn.) said the committee has been promised the evidence by St. Louis County (Mo.) authorities who seized it in bookmaking raids.

The Senator described the evidence as letters from the gambling syndicate promising Western Union managers 25 per cent of the "take" on all bets-by-wire they solicited.

The committee sought and seized data after hearing closed-door testimony by William Molasky of St. Louis, an owner of the Pioneer Sporting News Service and a big stockholder in Western Union.

Other developments in the national crime picture the committee is endeavoring to piece together included:

1. In New York, the trial of Gambler Frank Erickson on bookmaking and conspiracy charges was set for June 19. Erickson told a Senate committee last month that he does a $12,500,000 business.

2. The Kefauver committee indicated that it soon will investigate the New Orleans situation.

Trade Plan Hit By Gold Issue

PARIS, June 14 (AP).—Europe's plan to increase its trade by paying its debts through a clearing house appeared tonight to be stumbling over the problem of gold.

Experts who met here privately early this week are reported to have disagreed on the point at which gold should enter the settlement of debts.

The settlements are to be made within a European payments union, designed to put inter-European trade on a general basis, and do away with the old system of two-country deals.

A meeting in Brussels today among ministers of the Benelux group—Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—ended in a virtual deadlock because of Belgium's demand for a preferred position.

Belgium has huge credits with most European countries, and has demanded special treatment on the matter of settlement of debts. Under the E.P.U. scheme, countries would settle their trade debts with each other through the common clearing house, balancing imports and exports as far as possible and settling the remainder in gold or dollars.

Annual "Invasion" of Tourists From Faraway Places Now Reaching Full Swing

—Colonist Photo.

As tourist season rolls around so number of faraway licence plates appear in Victoria. In above picture, Mrs. Lloyd K. Perkins of Toronto and two sons, Ken and Wes, rest in Beacon Hill Park after 6,000-mile tour.

Although Victorians long have been accustomed to seeing "foreign" licences, most still have irresistible urge to crane necks to determine origin of strange colored plates. Above picture shows few of tourists' licences which already have been seen in Victoria.

Hot Dog Stand, Youngsters Aid Flood Fund

The donation was turned in to City Hall by Norman Wilkinson, 13; Joanne Pednesult, ten; Henry Dayton, nine; Lawrence Hall, 11, Michael Kolb, 11, and Ray Feldon, ten. They collected the money through the sale of refreshments at the corner of Gorge Road and Parkview Drive.

Donation turned in to The Colonist stand at $4,685.75.

Answer to Request for Check On Arena Floor Expected Soon

Acceptance of the city's invitation to survey the Memorial Arena floor is expected some time next week, Alder. Frank Mulliner, Arena committee chairman, stated yesterday on his return from Vancouver.

Alderman Mulliner and Alderman William Pinfold went to Vancouver on Monday to interview construction industry officials. They were looking for advice on the hiring of independent engineers to survey the Arena floor.

"We have interviewed prominent out-of-town men in the construction industry and expect an acceptance of our invitation to survey the Arena floor next week," stated Alderman Mulliner.

Arena consulting engineer C. T. Hamilton has refused to accept the Arena floor with the claim that it does not meet specifications. Laney Brothers & Hamilton, floor contractors, have stated the floor was laid completely under the direction of Mr. Hamilton.

TO BE KEPT SECRET

Alderman Mulliner advised that neither of the parties concerned in the dispute would be advised of the names of the independent engineers until the inspection is completed.

Alderman Pinfold added that the engineers themselves hoped to be able to avoid publicity during the Arena inspection.

ASK "RUSTIC GROTTO"

The city was asked in a letter yesterday from E. E. Hardisty, 1921 Quadra Street, to consider erection of a small club house or "rustic grotto" in Central Park.

Mr. Hardisty stated such a structure would provide a meeting place for elderly people.

Work Parties From City Service Clubs Prepare Sunshine Camp for Season

Various work parties are busy putting the finishing touches to Sunshine Camp, sponsored by the Family Welfare and Children's Aid Society.

Improvements include redecorating the inside and outside of the cabins, new roofing on some of the buildings, new furniture and flower gardens.

Work parties from the Rotary Anns, ladies' auxiliary to the United Commercial Travelers, the King's Daughters, St. Margaret's School, Kinsmen, Lions and Elks already have visited the camp at Sooke. Most of the work was done during the week-end of June 10.

A general volunteer work-party of Y.W.C.A. members and camp staff spent last week-end preparing the whole camp for occupancy.

SPONSORS NEEDED

Two cabins are still in need of sponsors and aid society officials are looking for any individual, organization or service club interested in filling these vacancies.

First to arrive at Sunshine Camp will be the senior citizen group. They will be there from June 20-30. All applications for this camp have been filled by the 57 campers expected to attend. Those wishing to attend the Sighfless Camp from July 15-25 are asked to make application soon.

CHILDREN'S CAMP

With the organization of the Senior Citizens' Camp, the staff is now concentrating on Children's Camp and the Mothers' and Children's Camp from July 28 to August 7.

The Children's Camp, to be held from July 3-13, will be limited to boys from 6-10 and girls in the 8-12 year age group. The camp from August 9-19 is open to all ages and sexes.

There will be swimming, both indoor and outdoor games, singing, craft and art work and clay modeling. Younger children will have coloring, painting, cut-outs and stories. Older children will have hikes arranged, crafts, drama, beach parties and camp fire programs and discussion groups.

PROGRAM DIRECTORS

The program is under the direction of Jan Flemming, assisted by Doreen Woods, Nora Mayne, Janet Bartholemew, Doreen Roy and Annabelle Keane.

During the Mothers' and Children's Camp, babies will be cared for in a supervised nursery which will be well supplied with toys. Stories, songs and beach outings will also be on the schedule for the junior set.

Premier Voices Regret At Death of R. R. Burns

Tribute was paid yesterday by Premier Byron Johnson to the memory of the late Richard R. Burns, former member of the British Columbia Legislature (1933-39) who died early yesterday morning in Royal Jubilee Hospital at the age of 76.

"It was with profound regret that I heard of the death of my old friend and former colleague.

"Mr. Burns, as Liberal member for Rossland-Trail, rendered outstanding and faithful service not only for his own constituents but for the province as a whole," said Premier Johnson.

UNSELFISH DEVOTION

"I would like to take this opportunity of expressing tribute for his unselfish devotion to public office and to extend our sympathy to his family."

Born at Rochester, Kent, England, Mr. Burns came to Canada in 1882. He was educated in Ontario and moved to British Columbia to settle in Sicamous, where he was married in 1904.

He was director of Kootenay Drugs Ltd. at Trail until two years ago, when he retired and moved to Victoria. A veteran of the Great War, Mr. Burns was appointed quarter-master of No. 5 Stationary Hospital, C.A.M.C., with the rank of captain.

He was a member of Vancouver-Quadra Lodge No. 68, A.F. & A.M.

FUNERAL SATURDAY

Surviving are his wife, Eveline, at 476 Obed Avenue residence; a daughter, Mrs. T. C. Holmes of Burns Lake, B.C.; two sons, Ronald M. and Dr. Robert E. Burns, Victoria; a sister, Dr. Margaret M. Burns of Ogden, Utah; and four brothers, Kenneth J., and Frank M. Burns of Vancouver, Edgar M. Burns of Portland, Ore., and Russell Burns, Spokane, Wash.

The remains are resting at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel and will be forwarded to Vancouver on the midnight boat Friday for funeral service in Vancouver on Saturday. Interment will be in Mountain View Cemetery there.

Injured Pair Recovering After Mishaps

Two persons—an elderly woman and a youth—are recovering in hospital from injuries suffered in two separate mishaps Monday.

Mrs. Christina Love, 71, of 2531 Government Street, is in "fairly good" condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital. She was in collison with a car at Douglas Street and Queens Avenue.

Frank White, 20, of 3474 Quadra Street, who was pinned under a loaded car hoist, is in "good" condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

F. D. Wickett Heads Agents

The Victoria Insurance Agents' Association elected F. D. Wickett president for the 1950-51 term at their 30th annual dinner at the Monterey Restaurant last night.

Other elected officers were H. P. R. Brown, vice-president; Lt.-Col. J. Nelson Gibson, honorary secretary-treasurer, and executive members G. R. Turner, O. G. Fraser, J. V. Harbord, W. J. Clark, G. S. Brown, Brig. F. N. Cabeldu and L. M. Cork.

T. H. Wilson was in the chair.

League Asks Reduction In Beer Parlor Hours

B.C. Temperance League delegates in Vancouver this week heard how the "drys" whipped the "wets" in Victoria's recent beer plebiscite.

Ray F. Whellams, who managed the Victoria Citizens' Association campaign against beer parlors, told delegates of the operational set-up of the association during the campaign and how they got the vote out to win the plebiscite.

Reduction of the operating hours of liquor stores and beer parlors to "bring them in line with total daily hours of sale of other commodities in the business life of the community" was asked of the Provincial Government by delegates.

OPPOSE ADVERTISING

Other resolutions urged that alcohol education, now implemented in public schools, be extended to adults through the press, radio and public facilities; that liquor and "goodwill" advertisements by liquor interests be banned from all Canadian magazines and newspapers and that the Government provide "specialized hospitalization for alcoholics and drug addicts in institutions altogether apart from mental patients."

Copies of all resolutions will be sent to the Federal and Provincial Government leaders.

Motorcyclist Cut, Bruised In Collision

A 17-year-old motorcyclist was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital cuffering from a head cut and bruises received in a collision with a car at Fort and St. Charles Streets last night.

He is Andreas A. L. Valis, 632 Harbinger Avenue.

City police said Valis was proceeding east on Fort when he collided with the rear of a car going west on Fort and turning left onto St. Charles.

Police said the driver of the car was Mrs. Helen Joyce Kjekstad, 812 Blanshard Street. Damage to both vehicles was estimated at $55.

Decision Expected Soon On Dreding in Harbor

Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew notified city officials yesterday that a decision was expected momentarily on the proposal to dredge the section of the Inner Harbor above Point Ellice bridge.

He said first reports available in Ottawa were to the effect that the dredge in the harbor at present would be unsuitable for the work required. He explained that a full report from the district engineer in this regard was being awaited.

Next Seventy-Two Hours Critical for B.C. Rivers

A FEW days heat, with warm nights following, has brought the level of major British Columbia river systems to within inches of their flood marks. For the next seventy-two hours it will be anxious watching to see if the day-long run-offs continue, or if chill nights will slow down the pace and give the rivers a chance to clear their surplus waters. This condition was anticipated and feared, because there is no question about the heavy snowfall which last Winter collected in the main drainage basins of the province; it is there, and only slightly reduced after a month of freshets.

What is different this year—and it may turn out to be a saving factor—is that the main dikes have been strengthened and are being watched. The gruelling lesson of 1948 has not been forgotten, and in that British Columbia took swift and disastrous punishment. Some incidental flooding is only to be expected, and indeed some has already occurred, principally at Usk. That much could take place any year. It is the long uninterrupted run-off night and day without check that is the chief cause for concern. In the last week that has brought the rivers to menacing levels. If it continues some degree of flooding may result. By all known standards, however, it does not appear that the threat is nearly so great as it was two years ago.

In the long run there will be no cure for this condition until the rivers themselves are controlled. That is a major engineering undertaking. It can be achieved by damming and sluice gates; or by deliberately flooding marsh lands in the run-off season. However it is done, each river is a separate problem and will have to be studied for its own peculiarities. So far British Columbia has not paid this degree of attention to its rivers. If there were to be a repetition of 1948, however, public insistence might demand a wiser solution than this yearly fight against fate.

One in Forty Draw a Federal Pay Cheque

WHILE the Dominion Government cites conflicting figures by the Bureau of Statistics and the Department of Finance respectively, for the number of Federal employees in Canada, debate in the House of Commons has brought out the fact that approximately one in forty persons in this country are employed by the Dominion, either directly as Civil Servants or else indirectly through the nationally-owned railway or other fixed services.

Accepting the Department of Finance's "estimate," there are some 156,000 Federal civil employees, including a large floating pay list representing those in "casual" employment. The Bureau of Statistics is more specific. Its "estimate" is 127,000 Civil Servants, not counting the "casuals" in allied services. The permanent Civil Service, at that figure compares with 40,000 Civil Servants in 1939, at the beginning of the late war. The merger of Newfoundland added somewhat to the previous total, but not enough to affect the obvious trend.

What happened in war was that Canada increased its Civil Service, temporary and permanent, three-fold. The cessation of hostilities by five years has made only slight change in that. As fast as one government office was closed another has been opened. The titles of the individuals and the labels of the offices may have been altered, but very few changes of any kind have come in the payroll lists of the Dominion. Since it is the Department of Finance that looks after the outgo, one is prepared to take its "estimate," a gross total of 155,960 employees, as being close to the mark. Why, however, only an "estimate," doesn't the Government know who is on the payroll?

So Much for Dr. Endicott's Eloquence

VICTORIANS inclined to accept at face value the statements of Dr. James Endicott while visiting here recently that Russia was full of nothing but peaceful intentions should take note of the budget presented to the Supreme Soviet this week, with Premier Stalin in attendance. This calls for a military expenditure of 79,400,000,000 rubles, equal to $19,850,000,000; an increase over last year, which in turn was 20 per cent higher than in 1948. The budget figure is official, transmitted with Soviet approval by an Associated Press correspondent stationed in Moscow for many years.

It was the contention of Dr. Endicott, a friend of the Soviet system and currently a "peace" missionary, that almost all Russian industrial output was absorbed by "peaceful reconstruction," and, by implication at least, that any war-mindedness that existed belonged in the Western powers. In this case the budget figures adopted by the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R. speak much more emphatically than do the words of Dr. Endicott.

Particularly since they exceed considerably the amount being asked by President Truman for United States military purposes this year. In fact the Russian budget calls for much more than the estimates of the same nature of the United States, Great Britain and Canada combined. Russia may not be preparing for war, as Dr. Endicott was eloquent in claiming, but the sum of $19,850,000,000 set aside for military uses suggests this to be a strange way of preparing for peace. At the very least it is evidence that Russia is no more pure of heart than the nations whom she never ceases to vilify as "warmongers."

HOPE IN UNITED NATIONS

Sir,—This old world now needs international law and order to keep it functioning . . .

The furnishing of the new United Nations permanent headquarters is under way—"The Centre of Man's Hope."

The Secretary-General has a bright new agenda for discussion by the nations' delegates that may bring about the brotherhood of man.

Let us pray that the "cold war" blasts lessen as the General Assembly and the Security Council meetings draw near.

WILLIAM MITCHELL.
89 South Holdom Avenue, Vancouver, B.C.

HUMAN RIGHTS

Sir,—I am very glad to note that my recent letter on the Declaration of Human Rights has stimulated thought and that one of your correspondents has started the ball rolling in his article on "Vague Generalities." He has given us all food for thought, even though he may, to my mind, be a little too drastic in his summing up.

This document which is being drawn up at the sixth session of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights, now meeting at Lake Success, will, if ratified by the member nations, become law, and our own laws will have to be changed to conform. Therefore, it behooves us all to give the principles laid down careful study and thought.

We have many service clubs and organizations where citizens meet together and it might be well for them to obtain literature on the subject from the Department of Public Information, United Nations, Lake Success. There is no reason why such a covenant should not lay the foundation stone for world peace; but we should keep our feet on the ground and see that something is drawn up which, taking human nature into consideration in all its complexities, can be put into practice.

(MRS.) DOROTHY SPURR.
Box 315, Chemainus, B.C.

BALLOT IS QUESTIONED

Sir,—We graciously accord sanctuary to displaced persons and desirable immigrants, all of whom may, in due time if well recommended, obtain the franchise and become Canadian citizens. Meanwhile we permit them to work side by side with Canadians, under similar conditions, pay, etc. We afford them education, protection, social securities and all the benefits that obtain for our own. They do not have a vote at the polls until Canadian citizenship has been obtained; then, not only they but their wives and dependents of mature age do.

Is it right that these privileged persons should be allowed to vote as union members in framing the laws under which Canadians shall work, and is it right and proper that minors, who by their age are not entitled to vote at the polls, should vote at such a ballot as was recently held in connection with the logging industry in this Province, while numbers of the same union who did not happen to be represented by a bargaining agent were denied the right to vote?

Again, in what other country would representatives of another country be permitted to air their opinions and advise the Government on matters pertaining to the interior economy of the nation they were visiting?

Try it, and see.

A. M. HILTON.
Courtenay, B.C.

From "The Solitary Reaper"

Behold her, single in the field,
Yon solitary Highland Lass!
Reaping and singing by herself;
Stop here, or gently pass!
Alone she cuts and binds the grain,
And sings a melancholy strain;
O listen! for the Vale profound
Is overflowing with the sound . . .

Will no one tell me what she sings?—
Perhaps the plaintive numbers flow
For old, unhappy, far-off things,
And battles long ago:
Or is it some more humble lay,
Familiar matter of to-day?
Some natural sorrow, loss, or pain,
That has been, and may be again?

Whate'er the theme, the Maiden sang
As if her song could have no ending;
I saw her singing at her work,
And o'er the sickle bending;—
I listened, motionless and still;
And, as I mounted up the hill
The music in my heart I bore,
Long after it was heard no more.

—WILLIAM WORDSWORTH.

"I'm Your Replacement"

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IF ever I had any compunction about reading detective stories — (not that I had)—it would be resolved by the admission of a visiting Anglican bishop that crime thrillers make relaxing holiday reading.

"I see nothing wrong in these books," says he. Neither do I.

In fact sometimes I've thought too much fuss is made about juveniles and crime comics. Youngsters don't read into stories everything that an adult does, and much that is condemned passes over their heads.

Nor is it likely that the average adult detective-story addict feels impelled to go out and commit mayhem just because he's been reading about it. Virtue, remember, always triumphs in the end. The authors see to that.

Of course, detective stories are escape reading. The high-brows will tell you this with a sniff. But then, every book is an escape from one's present surroundings.

Even this column is an escape for you for a minute—if you happen to be reading it.

* * *

There are some distinguished escapers. I believe Eisenhower used detective yarns as an antidote to the strains of military strategy. I doubt somehow that Montgomery indulged in like fashion, but famous statesmen as well as bishops have had a decided yen for the private sleuth. Some clergymen, Father Knox is one, even write this type of story.

(Why, wails the policeman, is the detective hero invariably a civilian "dick?" In real life it's the man with an official badge who actually catches the miscreants.)

Personally I'm not so well up on my detective fiction as I used to be, and at this precise moment I've too much sleuthing of my own to do among the good earth to be bothered with these hypothetical wonder-men.

But once I followed their doings with avid breath. I had a deplorable upbringing; my hero was a fellow called Sexton Blake, and I fear he was scarcely respectable. He never gained the aplomb of an actual book with regular covers, being condemned for ever to the flimsy pages of a penny dreadful. Sometimes I graduated to that erudite opium smoker, Sherlock Holmes, but not often. It was after I grew up I learned he belonged to the literary immortals.

Who the immortals are as of June 1950 I'm none too sure.

* * *

I suppose the Perry Masons, the Poirets, and the Michael Shanes are still solving mysteries with quite astounding deductive capacity, and Lord Peter Wimsey is as whimsical as ever. Every time I hear Christ Church Cathedral bells I think of Lord Peter and the story of the Nine Tailors, which in easy fashion initiates you into the intricacies of bell-ringing.

The radio has added to the roll of pseudo crime investigators. There's one called the Fat Man, I'm told, who performs miracles in half-an-hour, as does Harthstone of the Death Squad. I've listened to the latter occasionally—a policeman, for once—but he grows boring. All his cases turn on questioning suspects in a room.

Here is the wearisome aspect of detective stories—each hero follows a stock pattern of behaviour, as though he could operate only along one line. No doubt it's easier that way, like in the movies. Why try something new each time when the tested formula succeeds. Conan Doyle made even that classic master, Sherlock Holmes, stick to one type of last.

No, as the bishop says, for vacation reading there is no harm in a detective yarn; only some of them could put you to sleep right in the middle of your holiday.

B.C. Forests . . .

State or Private Ownership?

(This is the third in a series of articles on British Columbia's forest policies.)

By FRED McNEIL

BRITISH Columbia's Government refuses to sell land bearing mature timber to private individuals or companies. The Government sells only the right to cut trees.

Loggers agree such lands should be withheld from sale where timber should not be cut. They recognize the Government's duty to regulate cut so our forests will not be demolished, leaving the industry without raw material, allowing ghost towns to replace prosperous communities.

Their suggestion to the Government is: "Don't sell what you don't want cut."

But loggers say the present policy of refusing to sell any forest land just doesn't make sense.

They are backed up by the Vancouver and Victoria branches of the Canadian Society of Forest Engineers, many of whom work for the Government.

Loggers, and most foresters, argue this way:

"The effect of this type of tree-selling, combined with Government regulations, is to make us cut every tree, burn over the slash, destroy the humus and get out. The land goes back to the Government. It earns no taxes. But it has to be replanted by the Government at $30 an acre. In the 60 to 100-odd years it requires to grow a new crop, the Government must care for that land, although it's bringing in no revenue.

"This system doesn't allow nature a chance to do her own work. Natural reseeding is cheaper and five years faster in bringing new growth.

"This policy is against human nature, too. No man will give much care to land he knows he can't hold. Let him own it and he'll make sure it reseeds, because he has a selfish interest in it. Reforested land is an asset. It can be sold."

The forestry industry agrees with Chief Justice Sloan when he wrote: "The one basic principle that must be insisted upon is that new growth shall follow the harvesting of old growth stands."

* * *

The industry acknowledges, too, that there will always be loggers who want to "cut and get out." They think the answer lies in another of Sloan's recommendations—that every logger cutting trees deposit money with the Government. If he cuts in a way to bring natural reseeding in eight years, he gets his money back. If not, he loses his money and the forest service replants the land left bare.

H. J. Welch, logger and member of the Legislature, says the bulk of the industry wants a deposit scheme to ensure reforesting.

"The central point," he says, "is that, starting right now, no logger, on his own or Government land, should be permitted to cut timber without making specific provision for growing new trees on that particular piece of land."

* * *

So much for land bearing mature timber. The forest industry goes further. It says flatly that since 1947, no person or company has been able to buy cut-over forest land on which to grow trees.

Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney replies that any person wanting to grow trees can take out a management licence which, he says, is a better deal for the logger or tree farmer anyway.

Loggers reply that the licence scheme may work for part of B.C.'s forests, but never over all—not for most of the Province's 600 small logging outfits.

They declare it's not a healthy system, that every logger, big or small, who takes it on becomes like a feudal tenant, dependent on the whim of the Chief Forester and the Minister of Lands and Forests.

Says F. D. Mulholland, respected former forester for the Government, now forester for one of B.C.'s biggest logging outfits: "Talk about monopoly—the trend of the present policy is that this giant industry will be controlled by a small group of Government officials. Present laws give forestry officials too much power. If the laws were literally enforced it would be as bad as the days of King William, when the penalty for poaching in the King's forests was to cut off your hand."

Says another forester: "I'd like to draw a cartoon: Kenney as the King with a supplicant private enterpriser on his knees in tears, begging for land to grow trees on."

In the five years since the Sloan report, forest engineers have watched the Government's policy at work. Here is the conclusion of the Society of Forest Engineers, as stated in an official resolution:

"It is firmly believed that this policy (93 per cent Government ownership of forest land) if continued, will be a deterrent to forestry development. A greater proportion of private ownership would result in a more responsible approach to forest management by a greater number of citizens.

"Those countries which have shown the greatest forestry development have a much larger percentage of private ownership than British Columbia.

"It is recommended that Crown forest lands, either logged off or supporting a growth of immature timber, be made available for sale, when such is considered to be in the public interest."

(Tomorrow's article will deal with industry's claim that taxation makes private forest management impossible.)

Fun, Fact and Fiction

A pompous general, receiving no salute from a group of recruits, demanded of one of them: "Do you know who I am?"

The recruit looked at him blankly for a moment, then turned and called to a couple of companions: "Hey, fellows, here's a good one—a general who doesn't even know his own name."

"And then what happens?" he was asked.

"And then," replied the stout man, "my body says, 'Who, me?'"

Observation Car

By G. B.

"HOW about letting me have the car for the afternoon?" an Oak Bay youth asked his father. "Where do you intend to go?" the head of the household parried. "Well, I sort of half promised to take some of the fellows in my class to Patricia Bay. Three of them have never been to the airport," the boy replied. "I suppose you can have it. See that you are home by 6 o'clock, and watch out for the Saanich Police Department if you feel like breaking the speed limit," the boy's father advised. Within a few seconds the youth was roaring off down the street. "I do not know why every youngster behind the wheel of a car thinks he has to drive fast," the owner of the machine said to his wife. "Not much more than 20 years ago you used to drive a motorcycle around as if you were trying to fly too low," she chuckled. "That was different. We were not discussing motorcycles," he snorted. A few minutes after 6 p.m. the boy returned with the family automobile, and it did not take his father long to discover a crumpled right front fender. "Look, son. We have had this car for three years, and I have managed to drive it without damage. It will have to last us at least another two years. Now you have to go and make a mess of the fender," the boy's father stormed. Was the boy upset? He was not. All he said was: "You should see the other car" . . . Last time the Keating Squire drove to the city he offered a lift to two acquaintances who immediately decided to rub the squire's fur the wrong way just for fun. "They say farmers pay no income taxes," one commented. "They only pay when the tax collector catches them," the other replied. "I expect the high price of vegetables will enable farmers to spend next Winter in Florida," the first man continued. "Or buy old Rolls-Royces to pull their ploughs," the other passenger added. "Look here. The last time I saw mouths like yours, they had hooks in them," the Squire thundered.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

MARCEL Proust, the great French novelist, whom all we light intellectuals read reviews about in the literary supplements, but whose books precious few of us have had the steam to read, said this: "Facts do not penetrate into the realm in which our beliefs are cherished."

That's true. Each of us has a sort of little personal, private den in the mind, a kind of closet or attic hideaway, in which we store and coddle our beliefs; and into which we seldom or never invite what might be called the vulgar public of the facts. It is perhaps the most comfortable room in our whole mentality, full of often foolish treasures, toys of our childhood that we can't bring ourselves to throw away, much less exhibit even to our friends; relics and tokens; old, unfashionable garments hung on its pegs; but all very dear to us, because in this secret chamber we can hide, and feel secure; and facts can come and knock on the door; but by keeping still, we can wait until they go away.

In my particular den, I found a notion that I am prepared to chuck out. For years, I have held the private opinion that the drivers of maroon-colored motor cars are more reckless and dangerous drivers than the average. Over the years, it has become a fixed and solid belief of mine. I bolster the belief with the reflection that people of a reckless and careless character would be the sort of persons to choose an unusual color in a car, such as maroon. It stands to reason. You can make anything stand to reason, if you carry it quietly and unobtrusively into that private room of yours.

But now it occurs to me that if twenty cars are driven recklessly or carelessly, in my sight, during a couple of hours on the highway, and one of them is maroon, it is because of its unusual color that I notice it in particular out of all the common blue and black ones. Or, by Jove, now that you come to think of it, aren't maroon cars more recklessly driven . . . ?

Looking Back

Through Colonist Files

25 YEARS AGO—The graving basin at Skinner's Cove, being built by Yarrows, Ltd., for the Dominion Government, at a cost of $6,000,000 has been flooded for the first time. Remaining work is expected to be completed in time for an official opening before the end of the year.

50 YEARS AGO—Sanitary Officer Wilson, with a force of firemen, demolished four more shacks on Fisgard Street yesterday morning. A brick building will in all probability replace them.

85 YEARS AGO—Arrangements are being made by his numerous friends to give Sir James Douglas a right hearty welcome on his return to this colony from England. He is expected to arrive in a few days' time.

Building Boom Foreseen As Winnipeg Recovering

WINNIPEG, June 14 (CP).—Winnipeg, shaking herself like a wet dog, is emerging from the Red River flood with all four feet digging.

Just a month ago today the Red's gauge was teetering at the 30-foot mark. The biggest Spring run-off in a century gripped this centre of 350,000 people. Some 100,000 had already fled and the army, fearful of even higher waters, was ready with a plan to evacuate all but 75,000.

One-sixth of the metropolis—including several large, low-lying suburbs—was under water. Business was at a standstill.

AGAIN MUDDY STREAM

Today the Red is again a lethargic, muddy stream. Its level is 14.8 feet—more than three feet below flood stage and dropping daily.

Most of the city's flooded areas are dry. Householders are back into many homes once flooded above the first floor. Business is reasonably normal, with lines such as construction and housing supply beginning to feel a boom which will increase during the Summer.

Assessors representing Federal, provincial and civic flood-aid agencies have inspected 2,500 of an estimated 10,000 damaged homes. The Manitoba Flood Relief Fund, a private agency, has begun payments to those in greatest need.

BACK TO NORMAL SOON

Industry, about 15 per cent of which was directly affected by the flood, was expected to be back to normal this week.

Medical authorities reported the city's health was probably the best in the world, largely due to generous chlorination when they feared a typhoid epidemic. No single case resulted from the flood.

City officials, up to their ears in the thousand facets of civic restoration, considered—then rejected—a suggestion that a slum-clearance program should run hand-in-hand with reparation of damaged premises.

A week of hot, sunny weather has dried up much of the filthy fingerprint left by the Red, and dust—sure sign of a normal Prairie Summer—already is blowing in the streets.

U.K. Stand on Merger Shows Party Weakness

Interpreting the News

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
A.P. Foreign Affairs Analyst

The British Labor Party and its Government seem to be suffering from a bad case of schizophrenia—which means development of a dual personality and a loss of contact with environment.

For this reason it appears that the party's pronouncement against co-operation in Europe's search for economic unity unless it is developed under the rules of Socialist planning, may have small practical effect.

Not because the principles enunciated are lacking in impact, but because of what the situation suggests about the party and the Government which represents it in ruling Britain.

NOT OFFICIAL POLICY

The Government says the party manifesto does not represent official policy. Attlee says Britain does want to co-operate, and will try to help, not hinder, such things as the Schuman plan, whether she can enter into them herself or not.

The House of Commons and the world were confused over this duality of personality.

Apparently it all came about because Government leaders were too busy, and Foreign Minister Bevin was too sick, to look after a party committee which drafted the manifesto. The Government wanted to walk softly, realizing the suspicions raised in American and French minds by its cool attitude toward co-operation in Europe.

FEARED NO PUBLICITY

But Hugh Dalton, the committee chairman, is reported by The New York Times to have feared that the statement would receive no publicity if it waited until Parliament met and crowded other matter out of the small British papers, and so rushed it into print. It was this same Dalton who brought embarrassment on himself and the Government by premature disclosures regarding the British budget a couple of years ago.

In this one respect the whole thing might be considered just a foul-up. But the circumstances are too serious for that. Regardless of Attlee's disclaimer, the parallels between the manifesto and the actions of the British Government to date are too close. Such co-operation as Britain has given to the American policy for European economic and political unity has been reluctant, and frequently non-existent. This is not just orneriness, of course. Britain has very real problems in balancing her connections with the continent and with the Commonwealth of which she is the centre. She is conducting an uphill fight to regain the commercial position she once held and at the same time to maintain a social system which currently is beyond her means.

PARTY SEEMS SPLIT

But the main reason the Laborite attitude may have little practical effect is because of the disclosures regarding the health of the party itself. Britain, in the last election, proved to be split right down the middle between Socialism and Conservatism. Now the party, too, seems to be split. Its fall seems to be more imminent than ever.

To clarify the party position, explain himself, reassure Britain and the world that British policy has form at all, Mr. Attlee needs a full party meeting to decide whether his Government or the committee or either of them, is truly representative.

Men Feared Lost, Safe Near Nome

NOME, Alaska, June 14 (AP). — A nine-man hunting party, unreported for a week, has been found safe at an Arctic village north of Nome.

The group was reported waiting for favorable weather to continue a trip to Diomede Island. Tex Ziegler, an Alaska Airlines pilot, accompanied the party to take pictures.

The party is using an oomiak, or native skin-boat, powered by two outboard motors. A search was started yesterday after Spring storms led to apprehension for the party's safety.

Rich Egyptian Pashas Achieve Market Coup

ALEXANDRIA, June 14 (AP).—The first wholly effective corner on Egyptian cotton in this generation has disrupted the Alexandria Board of Trade; one of the world's major cotton exchanges.

The corner closed the market to trading for 24 hours, was reported to have made bankrupt several small dealers and may have made more than £10,000,000 (Egyptian) ($31,000,000) for two wealthy Egyptian pashas.

The Alexandria market failed to open yesterday because of the emergency but reopened today after exchange directors studied the situation.

The corner was created by two brokers in June deliveries of Ashmouni-type cotton, a middle staple variety, and prices have skyrocketed nearly 100 per cent in the last three months. It sold for about £15 in March and closed Tuesday at more than £28.

Trading circles credit Mohamed Farghali Pasha and Ali Yehia Pasha with pulling off the corner.

Small traders in Alexandria, lacking financial resources to buck the corner, were unable to meet June delivery commitments.

Oddities

RYE, N.Y., June 14 (AP).—Frank O'Hara put away his bow and arrows today. Golf players of the Rye Wood Country Club sliced and hooked with abandon.

Between the O'Hara home and the golf links now stands a wire fence 18 feet high and 90 feet long, impenetrable to golf balls—and to arrows.

O'Hara merely protested when his house was peppered by misdirected golf balls. But when his wife was hit on the head, he bought an archery set and "accidentally" fired arrows onto the course when golf players approached his property.

The expense of the fence was defrayed by the Country Club.

NEWARK, N.J., June 14 (AP).—Police hunted today for an especially-bad-tempered person who bit into more than he could chew.

They found a set of false teeth firmly embedded in the trunk of a tree.

CLEVELAND, June 14 (AP).—Municipal Deputy Clerk Harry J. Walker filed another eviction notice today. Then he served it—on himself.

Walker notified himself that his landlord wants his house vacated by June 20.

PEKIN, Ill., June 14 (INS).—Harry Sarnes, Pekin, Ill., restaurant owner, adopted a new twist today in employee-employer relations.

He closed his business for a week so he could take his 15 employees on a vacation. Sarnes and his employees will go to Webb Lake, Wis. where he will pay their vacation expenses in addition to their vacation salary.

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., June 14 (AP).—G. W. Worth, Jr., visiting fireman from LaGrange, Tex., volunteered to go along when an alarm came in as he talked to the boys in Central Fire Station.

Worth is six feet, nine inches tall and claims to be Texas' tallest fireman.

The fire was in a youngster's playhouse. The door was about three feet high.

Worth wasn't much help.

Milk Strikers Approached By Housewives

PITTSBURGH, June 14 (AP).—Crusading housewives and mothers moved in today on the milk delivery strike, demanding that negotiators end a dairy workers' walkout which began six days ago.

Led by Mrs. Nelson Bennett, 29-year-old mother of two, the hastily-organized band arranged to take their demand right to the negotiations table.

The 3,200 dairy employees walked out Friday in a dispute over wages, hours and other issues.

UNION NOT READY

A spokesman for dealers said they are willing to submit the principal issues to arbitration if the union agrees to settle "unimportant issues" now and arbitrate. The union has not rejected the offer, but maintains "we are not yet ready," the dairymen's spokesman declared.

A similar milk strike in Washington meanwhile entered its fourth day with no peace in sight.

At least nine pickets were arrested on rural roads. Four were charged with contempt of a court order banning interference with milk deliveries. The other five were arrested after a group of men seized a truck and dumped 1,800 quarts of milk.

Fire Blazes In Buildings Above Mine

NORDEGG, Alta., June 14 (CP).—A tar-fed fire, black smoke billowing, raged through surface installations worth $1,000,000 at Brazeau Collieries early today. All buildings except an office were destroyed in an hour.

The most damaging fire in Alberta since March, 1949, threw 450 mine employees out of work. No one was injured.

The mine, which supplies coal and briquettes to Canadian National Railways, only recently rebuilt its No. 5 briquetting plant, destroyed by flames six months ago.

Brazeau Collieries is one of the largest coal mines in this foothills mining district, 170 miles southwest of Edmonton.

The fire was believed to have started in the coal-drying system in the tipple.

SUTTON, Surrey, England (CP).—Three 13-year-old boys, accused in court of stealing three surveyor rods, were discharged when they would make "smashing spears."

Overcrowding Will Be Eased

Sees S. J. Willis School Completed by September

S. J. Willis Junior High School should be ready for use when schools open in September, "if the present rate of construction is maintained," B. C. Gillie, recently appointed principal of the new school, said this week.

Contractors were "making every effort to have the building in shape for the beginning of the school term," Mr. Gillie stated.

Overcrowding at Oaklands, Cloverdale, Quadra and other nearby schools would be relieved by completion of the new unit, he said.

TWO PORTABLE UNITS

Stressing the need for early construction of other junior high schools in the Oak Bay and Lansdowne districts, Mr. Gillie noted that Willows elementary school was already using two portable units and that a third would be ready for the anticipated increase in enrollment in September.

"I believe that junior high schools provide an environment that ensures a wise and sympathetic understanding of the special needs of adolescents," he said, adding that he believed the Greater Victoria School Board had acted wisely in adopting junior high school construction as the "core" of its building program.

GIVEN OPPORTUNITY

"In them, children have an opportunity to explore the general fields of knowledge, in science and mathematics, in commercial, fine and industrial arts. Such exploration helps to disclose to the pupils their own interests, aptitudes and abilities."

Included in the 13-project building program for School District 61, which requires passage of a further $686,400 by-law for its completion, are construction of two new junior high schools in Lansdowne and Oak Bay, as well as replacement of the outmoded present Central Junior High School.

Seattle Scouts Visiting Here Over Week-End

The popularity of international visits between Canadian and American Boy Scouts continues to grow.

This week-end the Boy Scouts of America Troop 126 of Seattle will visit the Fairfield Boy Scout Troop.

TOUR OF BUILDINGS

The United States Scouts will arrive in Victoria Friday on the afternoon boat. They will be met at the boat by the local troop and taken on a tour of the Legislative Buildings, where they will be shown the Provincial Museum and the Archives.

A swimming party will held Friday night at the Crystal Garden.

Saturday morning the two troops will be left free for a shopping tour of Victoria. In the afternoon they will inspect the H.M.C.S. Ontario and the Esquimalt drydock. Afterwards they will go to the Fairfield Troop's Scout Camp at Millstream, returning to the Scout Hall in the evening for dinner and movies.

CHURCH PARADE

A church parade to the Fairfield United Church will be held Sunday morning. The United States Scouts will be left free in the afternoon until their boat leaves.

This is an exchange of visits. The local troop made a trip to Seattle last month as guests of the American Scouts.

Booklet Lauds Opportunity In Dominion

Canada offers an opportunity to its citizens second to no other country in the world, according to a booklet published today by The Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

The booklet, entitled "Canada—Land of Hope," reviews the history of the country in general terms and predicts that Canada's best days are still before her. "Canada has not become great by chance," the publication comments, "but rather because there has been here created and nurtured an atmosphere in which the will and energy of peoples from many lands have been allowed full expression within the limits of the public welfare."

NEW DISCOVERIES

The booklet points to the new iron discoveries in Quebec and Labrador, to oil in Alberta, to Canadian achievement in the field of atomic research and to the initiative and industry of Canadian youth as evidence for an optimistic view of the Canadian future.

In announcing the publication of "Canada—Land of Hope," R. A. Bryce, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said: "During the last few years, there has been developing in Canada a growing realization that our country is unique, both in our capacity to accomplish great things with a small population and in the peculiarly Canadian character of our people."

Bail Set at $1,000 for Young Man Accused of Stabbing Acquaintance

A 22-year-old man was charged in city police court yesterday with stabbing an acquaintance in broad daylight in a Johnson Street restaurant.

He is Frank Buckle, 217 Cook Street, who is charged with wounding Walter Kisielewski, 1319½ Broad Street with a knife.

The charge was laid by Kisielewski, not by city police. The case had been under investigation by detectives since the report was received Saturday, but they decided against laying a charge.

Buckle was arrested by Detective Fearon Woodburn and Constable William Andrews by virtue of a warrant sworn out by Kisielewski.

Magistrate H. C. Hall set bail at $1,000. Buckle was remanded to this morning without plea.

FOUND GUILTY

Mrs. Marie Guiney, charged with violating sanitary conditions at 1753 Rockland Avenue by neglecting to provide occupants of the house with a sufficient supply of wholesome and pure drinking water, was found guilty by the magistrate and remanded to this morning for sentence.

Kazimerz Sieradzan, a Polish displaced person, told the court through a woman interpreter there was no water for washing or drinking. At present, he stated, there is "just a trickle." In reply to a question by City Prosecutor Claude L. Harrison, the witness said there wasn't enough water for his wife and two children.

The defendant told the magistrate the water had been turned off by the city and she didn't have enough money to pay a bill owing. She didn't have the money, she added, because rent was owing on Sieradzan's room.

DRIVING CASES

Magistrate Hall imposed a $50 fine and three-month licence suspension on James Walter McDonnell, H.M.C.S. Ontario, who pleaded guilty to a dangerous driving charge laid after an accident May 29 on Heywood Avenue.

Pleading guilty to a careless driving charge arising out of an accident June 9 on Fisgard Street, John J. Muirhead, East Saanich Road, was fined $35.

Kiwanians Will Fly To Vancouver

Approximately 30 members of the Victoria Kiwanis Club will fly in a specially-chartered Trans-Canada Air Lines plane to Vancouver, June 22, to an inter-city luncheon meeting of the Vancouver Kiwanis Club.

The local Kiwanis group will leave Patricia Bay at 9:30 a.m., and return around midnight. While in the Mainland city the Victorians will play golf and be taken on brief sightseeing tours. At the luncheon, John Vickers of Victoria will be guest speaker, Hugh Curtis, also of this city, will be in charge of luncheon music entertainment.

At yesterday's luncheon meeting of the club, Albert Sullivan presented an interesting review of a trip recently made throughout the United States.

Elect Leaders At Parksville

PARKSVILLE, June 14.—Officers elected at a meeting of Parksville Players were: Allan Forrester, president; Miss Verna McDonald, vice-president; Mrs. E. Winch, secretary; W. A. Paterson, treasurer, and Miss Estelle Gilbert, play director. H. J. Parsley presided.

Plans were made for two productions to be based on excerpts from well-known Broadway musicals. The first will be staged in July.

Rehearsals will get under way on Thursday for the first production, which will be called "Hi-Lites." Keen interest is being shown by residents of the whole district.

Proceeds from the productions will go toward providing a ceiling in the Community Hall. It is hoped to continue the work of the players' group during the Winter.

NANAIMO, June 14.—Funeral services for the late John Richard Cotton, 71, will be conducted by Rev. J. H. Wright in Gabriola Island United Church, Thursday afternoon, followed by interment at Gabriola Cemetery. D. J. Jenkins, Ltd., is in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Cotton had been a resident of Gabriola Island for the past seven years. He was born in England, and had been employed by the C.P.R. investigation department. He is survived by his widow, one son, one daughter, three brothers and two sisters.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

VARIETY IS THE SPICE OF LIFE

One may well wonder how the ancient Greeks said it, or the Egyptians, or other people of antiquity. For surely the fact and the idea belong no more to Elizabethan times than to our own, being true-of-life anywhere. It is only the saying, "Variety is the spice of life," that can be tracked down.

We know how the Romans might have said "variety is the spice of life," for the old proverb's original form is in Latin. However, it was the Latin of Sir Francis Bacon, who lived from 1561 to 1626—those "learned times" when the English philosopher naturally penned his essays in the learned tongue.

What Bacon actually wrote was "Nothing is pleasant unless spiced with variety." And from this came the popular form of the metaphor which is the subject of this discussion.

William Cowper, the 18th century English poet, put it this way:

"Variety's the very spice of life
That gives it all its flavour."

Thus, if it is the origin of an exact wording that is sought here, William Cowper is the saying's author.

Watching Pain in Abdomen

By DR. J. B. WARREN

If a pain starts in the middle of abdomen, slowly moves over to right lower side and stays there appendicitis is likely the trouble and your doctor should be called at once. It is better to be sure than sorry. If the abdominal wall is tense and hard there is a dangerous condition present and no food or laxative should be given, nor any drug to relieve pain before the doctor arrives.

Appendicitis occurs as often as ever but early operation and giving no laxative prevents death in about 99 of every 100 cases.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during intervening times between the high and low waters as given. 0.6 feet must be subtracted from the heights in these tables to conform with the datum of soundings on the charts of the locality.

A Murder Is Announced

By AGATHA CHRISTIE

Copyright, 1950, by Agatha Christie Mallowan

CHAPTER XXIV—Continued

"I thought—well, I thought—perhaps she'll remember me—and she's one of the people I could ask for a little help. I mean someone you've known as a girl—been at school with—well, they do know about you—they know you're not just a—a begging letter writer—"

Tears came into Dora Bunner's eyes.

"And then Lotty came and took me away—said she needed someone to help her. Of course I was very surprised—very surprised—but then newspapers do get things wrong. How kind she was—and how sympathetic. And remembering all the old days so well . . . I'd do anything for her—I really would. And I try very hard, but I'm afraid sometimes I muddle things — my head's not what it was. I make mistakes. And I forget and say foolish things. She's very patient. What's so nice about her is that she always pretends that I am useful to her. That's real kindness, isn't it?"

Miss Marple said gently, "Yes, that's real kindness."

"I used to worry, you know, even after I came to Little Paddocks—about what would become of me if—if anything were to happen to Miss Blacklock. After all, there are so many accidents—these motors dashing about—one never knows, does one? But naturally I never said anything — but she must have guessed. Suddenly one day she told me that she'd left me a small annuity in her will—and—what I value far more—all her beautiful furniture."

"I was quite overcome—But she said nobody else would value it as I should—and that is quite true—I can't bear to see some lovely piece of china smashed—or wet glasses put down on a table and leaving a mark. I do really look after her things—Some people—some people especially, are so terribly careless—and sometimes worse than careless!

"I'm not really as stupid as I look," Miss Bunner continued with simplicity. "I can see, you know, when Letty's being imposed upon. Some people—I won't name names—but they take advantage. Dear Miss Blacklock is, perhaps, just a shade too trusting."

Miss Marple shook her head.

"That's a mistake."

"Yes, it is. You and I, Miss Marple, know the world. Dear Miss Blacklock—" she shook her head.

Miss Marple thought that as the secretary of a big financier Miss Blacklock might be presumed to know the world too. But probably what Dora Bunner meant was that Letty Blacklock had always been comfortably off, and that the comfortably off do not know the deeper abysses of human nature.

"That Patrick!" said Miss Bunner with a suddenness and an asperity that made Miss Marple jump. "Twice, at least, to my knowledge, he's got the money out of her. Pretending he's hard up. Run into debt. All that sort of thing. She's far too generous. All she said to me was when I remonstrated with her, 'The boy's young, Dora. Youth is the time to have your fling'."

"Well, that's true enough," said Miss Marple. "Such a handsome young man, too."

"Handsome is as handsome does," said Dora Bunner. "Much too fond of poking fun at people. And a lot of going on with girls, I expect. I'm just a figure of fun to him—that's all. He doesn't seem to realize that people have their feelings."

"Young people are rather careless that way," said Miss Marple.

CHAPTER XXV

SUSPICIOUS

Miss Bunner leaned forward suddenly with a mysterious air.

"You won't breathe a word, will you, my dear Miss Marple?" she demanded. "But I can't help feeling that Patrick was mixed up in this dreadful business. I think he knew that young man—or else Julia did. I daren't hint at such a thing to dear Miss Blacklock—at least I did and she just snapped my head off. And of course it's awkward—because he's her nephew—or at any rate her cousin—and if the Swiss young man shot himself Patrick might be held morally responsible, mightn't he? If he'd put him up to it, I mean. I'm really terribly confused about the whole thing. Everyone making such a fuss about that other door into the drawing-room. That's another thing that worries me—the detective saying it had been oiled. Because you see, I saw—"

She came to an abrupt stop.

Miss Marple paused to select a phrase.

"Most difficult for you," she said sympathetically. Naturally you wouldn't want anything to get round to the police."

"That's just it," Dora Bunner cried. "I lie awake at nights and worry . . . because, you see, I came upon Patrick in the shrubbery the other day. I was looking for eggs—one hen lays out—and there he was holding a feather and a cup—an oily cup."

Cleaning Up in Winnipeg

With garden hoses, mops and brushes, residents of Winnipeg suburb of Wildwood are getting back into slime-encrusted homes as waters of Red River recede. They are finding heart-breaking damage, spending weary hours, swabbing and scrubbing. Above, Ted Ransby washes silt and slime from his living-room floor. His piano is warped and crumbling.

Music Ban in Commons Rings Bell at Whitehall

LONDON, June 15 (CP).—News that Canada has prohibited the playing of musical instruments in Parliament touched a responsive chord here.

The Evening Standard investigated to find out whether a similar ban had ever been imposed in Britain, and decided that the nearest precedent occurred March 19, 1872.

The parliamentary report of that date says that notice was taken of the crowing of cocks, and "other disorderly noises," proceeding from members behind the chair. The Speaker condemned these as gross violations and "expressed the pain with which he heard them."

"SAY IT WITH MUSIC"

On this evidence, The Standard said editorially, it seems apparent that a member of the United Kingdom Parliament can still try to address the House by methods musical, as long as he steers clear of disorderly noises.

STORMY WEATHER

In fact, teetotallers in Westminster probably could advance their cause with a massed harp rendering, during a debate on beer or spirits, of a well-known ditty like "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes."

Expelled members could chant their farewell statements to the tune of "Stormy Weather" or "If I Had the Wings of An Angel."

"VAST POSSIBILITIES"

"The idea has vast possibilities," the editorial added. "It might see the conversion of the House of Commons into a conservatory, an Elysian grove where:

"When Attlee strikes the trembling lyre,
"The streams stand still, the stones admire'."

The Standard's editorial followed an Ottawa press dispatch published in London which told how Rev. Dan McIvor, Liberal member of the Canadian Parliament, took a tin flute out of his pocket and played during a division: The Speaker, W. Ross Macdonald, subsequently banned the playing of musical instrument in the Chamber.

Disappearances Revive Scare

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, June 14 (CP).—Four men and a fishing boat disappeared today, just two weeks after the "Paria pirate" scare abated.

Several fishermen disappeared in the Paria Gulf during the last two months and police said they believed a band of pirates was operating off the coast in high-speed launches. Five men have been charged with murder in the death of one of the fishermen.

No trace was found today of four men, well known in the Port of Spain market place, who disappeared Monday. A small fishing craft and an outboard motor also were missing.

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., June 14 (INS).—Philippine Foreign Minister Carlos P. Romulo declared today that his Government is winning the battle against Communist-led Hukbalahaps operating in South Luson and is far from any danger of collapse.

Oberammergau Passion Play Brings Tourists, Resentments

OBERAMMERGAU, June 15 (NANA).—This quaint and lovely town buzzes today, as it will right through the Summer, with tourists from all parts of the wolrd.

The narrow, cobbled streets are filled with shiny American cars and with noise of their horns which contrast sadly with the ring of cow bells in the distance.

Boys and girls here are indistinguishable from each other. Both wear long wavy hair and the national lederhosen (short leather pants). All have some part in the Passion Play.

It seems that only the policemen have their hair cut and their faces shaved. The other men wear masses of hair that drops from heads to shoulders and faces to waists.

HAIRDRESSER BUSY

The local barber, who is also a wood carver, has been out of customers for some time, but the ladies' hairdresser is doing a roaring business in permanent waves. In an establishment where they normally have no business, men come to have their hair curled. But beards are not trimmed.

Some characters who were to play Jews but whose beards didn't grow fast enough were switched to clean-shaven Roman parts.

Alois Lang, who once played the part of Christ but now reads the prologue, wears his iron-grey hair in a low wavy bob. He greets his hotel customers courteously and allows himself to be photographed with the most important guests.

He is a jolly heavy-set man—not at all as most of us have pictured Christ. Lang has long since forgotten the dark days when it was touch and go whether he would be jailed for being a Nazi or not.

The only people who speak about those days are the very old. They once held the Passion Play as something truly sacred but today they view it almost with disgust.

NOT HAPPY

For one thing they aren't happy with the present cast. "It isn't as it once was. In my young days the characters lived the parts as well as played them," said one old lady, while her bearded and wrinkled husband said darkly, "Only too true, only too true."

There are 1,400 men and women and children taking part in this show and almost all have had their troubles.

Women who wanted to get married had to postpone the event, as no married woman can be in the play. Men whose hair wouldn't grow became frantic. And children who, to the despair of their mothers, cut each other's hair off as a lark almost lost their places.

Tiny things have been troublesome, too. With both men and women wearing hairpins and bobby pins, not a one can be bought today.

PLAYERS AT WORK

This town does not give forth any deep feelings of religion. At any time you can see the players at their daily work, and to have Willi Bierling, who plays the part of Joseph, sell you a music box and show you how to make it work in his large store, in no way revives memories of the Bible stories taught in Sunday school.

But the play itself is taken seriously. Many visiting Germans wear either black or dark grey clothing. The auditorium, which holds 5,200, was filled to capacity but not a sound was heard during the eight hours of showing other than the voices from the open-air stage.

Truman Finds Way to Keep Parties Lively

WASHINGTON, June 15 (INS).—President Truman has found a painless way of beating the rap that party protocol imposes on him.

The chief executive has recently adopted a diplomatic dodge for having a good time at a party without keeping any sleepyheads in the company from hitting the hay early.

Protocol, of course, decrees that no guest may leave a Washington social function before the guest of honor takes his departure.

This, in turn, means that the poor, underprivileged guest of honor must make his adieux at the height of the festivities in order to release any other guests who might want to—or have to—leave the party early.

Several foreign diplomats, finding themselves in this often unwelcome situation, have devised a system for saying goodbye all around, departing in style and driving around the block a few times.

President Truman at two recent private parties at least, adopted a variation of the same scheme.

The chief executive said good night politely, thanked his hostesses for a most enjoyable evening, then withdrew into a small anteroom to allow the early birds to get on their way.

Then he returned to finish out the evening in high spirits.

At one such party he even took to the piano bench and regaled the guests with a musical program—to the outspoken amazement and delight of the out-or-towners present.

WORTHING, Sussex, England (CP).—A stove explosion severely injured 14-month-old Ruth Longley in her home. It also blew the oven out of the window.

MORDERN, Surrey, England (CP).—A woman's institute here had a competition for the best-dressed clothes peg. The winning peg was dressed in crinoline.

LONDON (CP).—Two special postage stamps are to be issued for the 1951 Festival of Britain. They will be in the 2½d and 3d denominations.

MAKE JAM THE MODERN SHORT-BOIL WAY

SAVE TIME, WORK, MONEY

Compare These Two Methods —

WITH CERTO

1. Mrs. A. makes jam the short-boil way with CERTO. She has 2 pounds of fruit prepared, ready to start at 9 o'clock.
2. The dotted line shows level of the prepared fruit in Mrs. A's saucepan.
3. Mrs. A. adds 3 pounds of sugar. A pound of jam made with CERTO contains no more sugar than a pound made the old long-boil way.
4. Mrs. A. brings the mixture to a full rolling boil; boils hard ONE MINUTE only; removes from stove and adds ½ bottle (4 ozs.) Certo. CERTO is the natural jellying substance in fruit in concentrated form.
5. Mrs. A. is able to pour and paraffin about 5 pounds (10 glasses) of jam from her 2 pounds of fruit. She gets sure results because she follows the CERTO recipe EXACTLY.
6. Mrs. A's 10 glasses of jam were made in just 15 minutes.

THE OLD WAY

1. Mrs. B. makes jam the old-fashioned long-boil way. She, too, is ready to start her jam making at 9 o'clock.
2. Mrs. B. starts off with the same amount of prepared fruit in her saucepan.
3. Mrs. B. uses the old "pound of sugar per pound of fruit" standard recipe. So she adds 2 pounds of sugar.
4. Mrs. B. boils the mixture about 30 minutes before the jam thickens to the desired consistency. This evaporates about ⅓ the weight of the fruit, darkens the color and carries off much of the natural fresh-fruit flavor in steam.
5. Mrs. B. pours and paraffins about 3 pounds (6 glasses) of jam from the same amount of fruit. Until it is finished she cannot tell for sure how well her jam will turn out.
6. Mrs. B. took 45 minutes to make her 6 glasses of jam.

Certo gave Mrs. A. sure results... much more jam... saved time, work and money.

Free Recipe Book

Under the label of every bottle of CERTO is a book of 78 tested recipes for jams and jellies. Different fruits need different handling, so CERTO gives you a separate recipe for each fruit. Be sure to follow the simple directions EXACTLY.

Quebec Wedding of Interest Here

A Quebec wedding which is of interest to Victorians took place recently when John Grant Hannan, son of Mrs. Hannan, 813 Cook Street, Victoria, was united in marriage with Gladys Marjorie, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Marsh of Verdun, Quebec. Rev. C. Gardner Ward officiated at the ceremony.

Mr. Norman Toi played the wedding music and Mr. T. Toban sang "Just for Today" and "Bless This House" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the lovely bride wore a gown of ivory satin, fashioned with Queen Anne collar, sweetheart neckline and fitted bodice. The full skirt ended in a short train and the sleeves came to points over the hands. Her fingertip-length veil was held by a headdress of lily of the valley, and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. B. Morrison, as her sister's matron of honor, was gowned in yellow taffeta and nylon, fashioned with fitted bodice, square neckline, and full skirt. Miss Adele Cheval, bridesmaid, was in mauve taffeta and nylon, fashioned similarly to Mrs. Morrison's gown. Both attendants carried bouquets of yellow carnations and mauve sweet peas.

Groomsman was Mr. Ronald Thomson and ushers were Mr. Bradley Morrison and Mr. Archie Marsh.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the LaSalle Hotel and later the newly married couple left to spend a honeymoon in the United States. For traveling the bride chose a wine gabardine suit with grey accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Hannan will reside in Montreal.

Tea was served at small tables scattered on the lawns beneath spreading oak trees and guests were entertained by highland dancing performed by pupils of Adeline Duncan.

Those pouring tea were Mrs. F. Butterfield, Mrs. H. N. Morey, Mrs. A. R. Roberts and Mrs. J. S. Heal.

Conveners were Mrs. A. Petch, Mrs. L. Hobbs, Mrs. A. Kerr, Mrs. G. I. Warren, Mrs. J. McKay, Mrs. M. Anderson and Mrs. J. Alexander.

Visit Churches

St. Stephen's Church, Saanich, was visited recently by the Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Mitchell of St. Mark's Church, Nakusp, B.C., and Mr. and Mrs. J. Vellacott of Albert Head.

Mrs. Vellacott and Mrs. Mitchell are granddaughters of the late Archdeacon Henry Puss-Wright of Victoria, and daughters of the late Rev. F. G. Wright, D.D., one time fifth rector of St. Stephen's Church.

The party also visited St. Paul's Garrison Church in which the stained glass window over the altar was the gift of Archdeacon Wright in memory of an aunt of Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Vellacott.

Bermuda was colonized by the British Virginia Company in 1612.

No Profit From Carpet

LONDON, June 14 (Reuters).—Queen Mary's needlepoint carpet, on which the 83-year-old Queen Mother worked for eight years to help Britain's dollar drive, has made little or no profit from its 11,000 miles tour of the United States and Canada.

The "Queen Mary's Contribution to the Dollar Drive" Committee said today that admission fees while the carpet was on display in London and sales of pamphlets about it had paid the expenses of the North American tour, during which 350,000 people saw the carpet in 23 cities. But they left "no significant profit."

V.O.N. Make 1,965 Calls During Month of May

The regular meeting of the V.O.N. board was held in the Y.W.C.A. when Miss M. Baird, supervisor, reported that Miss Vivian Wylie, a 1949 graduate of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, has joined the staff. Miss Dorothy Parfitt is working with the order for the Summer months.

The number of calls is growing because of the increased use of intramuscular therapy, penicillin, streptomycin, iron and vitamin preparations. Miss Baird reported 1,965 visits made during the past month, and contrasted this with 1,793 visits in May last year, and 1,259 in May the year before.

Miss Betty Short, one of the staff nurses, exhibited the new type nursing bags, two of which have been provided by the Junior V.O.N. Then, using the map to show the layout of the seven districts, she gave a lucid description of one of her days at work, showing how necessary is the combination of skilled nursing care, teaching, and team work with the doctor in helping people back to health.

Mr. E. C. Lewis reported for the car committee on repairs needed to keep the cars in good shape. Mrs. C. F. Usher, president of the Junior V.O.N. board, said that the "Children's Fair" had brought in nearly $400. Miss K. E. Gray gave a report on the Local Council of Women. Plans were discussed for publicity for the Community Chest campaign, of which the V.O.N. is a member agency.

Garden Party On July 19

It was decided to hold the annual garden party on July 19 at the home of Mrs. J. Glenn when members of the L.A. to Prince Edward Branch, Canadian Legion, met on Tuesday in the hall. Mrs. J. B. Bell presided.

Mrs. T. Thorpe's offer of a stove for the hall kitchen was accepted with thanks.

It was also decided that the auxiliary would sponsor a stall at the Community Fall Fair.

Members were invited to attend the Zone Council meeting to be held at Sooke on June 22.

Single Girls Lose Debate Over Employment Rights

TRAIL, B.C., June 14 (CP).—It was single girls versus married women in a major controversy at Tuesday's session of the Ladies' Auxiliaries to B.C. Command, Canadian Legion, in debating a resolution asking that single girls be given preference over married women in employment.

The Kelowna Branch auxiliary's resolution that owing to unemployment working girls should be given preference over those now held by married women whose husbands are willing and able to support them was defeated after a rousing debate.

One delegate shouted that some women were working for more salaries while their husbands are pulling in hundreds, and single girls are walking the streets. Others pointed out that many married women worked to help support invalid parents or relatives. In any case, said one delegate, employers could hardly be forced to fire married women and give their jobs to less experienced or less capable single girls. The motion was defeated by a close vote.

The session saw endorsation of some 23 resolutions covering employment problems, housing, protests against hospital and unemployment insurance details, and more benefits for veterans.

AGE DISCRIMINATION

The auxiliaries strongly protested the policy of various Governments in discriminating against men and women over 40 or 45 years of age for employment, and asked that the Federal Government inaugurate a housing scheme to accommodate elderly couples living on war veterans' allowance or elderly widows on pensions … in two or three room heated suites at a rental in keeping with their income.

A Britannia Beach resolution that monthly payments of hospital insurance premiums rather than a six-months advance payment be inaugurated was endorsed.

Another request was that the Government compensate patients who had been unable to gain admittance to hospitals where deemed necessary by doctors and had been forced to pay someone to care for them at home.

RECOMMEND ENFORCEMENT

The auxiliaries recommended that the Unemployment Insurance Act be enforced. Many employers do not return insurance books promptly and then the employee often suffered. It was felt the employer should be forced to pay the worker full wages until the book was handed to him.

The group also objected to the present jurisdiction of the Unemployment Insurance Commission over veterans' officers who were … concerned with the Department of Veterans Affairs. It was felt that veteran affairs were … the … Department … matters.

The … waiting period for unemployment insurance benefits to be received by a person who had been dismissed or left his job was … who also asked that payment of claims be expedited.

The group resolved that the Government be petitioned to make a more equitable distribution of … for veterans under the Veterans' Land Act … than the … veteran's widow.

Another … in the War Veterans' Act dealing with widows of Imperial veterans. When the veteran died before completing 20 years residence in Canada the widow was left without pension. The members felt that they should be aided financially by Government …

Canada's most famous natural laxative cereal … Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Branburgers for the Main Course

1 egg
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1¼ cups milk
1 cup bran
1 pound ground beef
10 slices bacon

Beat egg, add salt, pepper, onion, parsley, milk and bran. Let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Add beef and mix thoroughly. Cut slices of bacon lengthwise into two strips. Arrange two strips bacon crosswise on waxed paper. Mold generous tablespoon of meat mixture into pattie and place on bacon intersection. Bring strips together on top of pattie, skewering with toothpick. Bake in hot oven (450 degs. F.) about 30 minutes or broil about 20 minutes. Remove branburgers from pan. Add some milk and seasonings to drippings. Thicken slightly to make gravy. Yield: Five servings (10 patties).

Flavor of Food Tempts Appetite

Some people in this world eat from habit. Others swallow food from a sense of duty, just to get the necessary quota of calories, vitamins and minerals. Most people, however, eat because they like food and they like it because it tastes good. To such people food is fun. When you come down to fundamentals it is the flavor of food that tempts the appetite and keeps people eating the right amount of the right foods. That is why laboratories are set up to test foods and do research on methods of cooking which preserve natural flavors. Food laboratories also try out combinations of foods which will bring new flavor treats. The homemaker who thinks of the interesting things she may do in her own kitchen also finds pleasure in food.

Every home cook should consider the matter of saving flavor. Certainly every thrifty homemaker takes considerable care to prevent the loss of good flavor and to be sure that her cooking methods do not produce flat or unpalatable foods.

OFTEN CARELESSNESS

As citizens of a country which produce the abundance of good food we are often careless. Every day in many homes flavor leaves food in escaping steam from the cooking pot or in water poured down drains. Sometimes it is spoiled by too long cooking or too much heat. Then it is necessary to pep these spoiled foods with seasoning and sauces. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, say this is an expensive and unsatisfactory way. It is much better to keep the natural flavor and texture.

The first point in keeping flavor is to look after foods before cooking. Many vegetables and fruits lose their freshness very quickly in a warm store or kitchen. If these products must be stored they should be moist and cold. The natural sugar in fresh peas, beans and corn changes in a few hours in a warm atmosphere. Sometimes the flavor comes from volatile oils. These are also easily lost before and during cooking.

POOR COOKING

A prejudice against vegetables is almost always the result of poor cooking methods. Over-cooking always spoils that fresh-from-the-garden flavor. Cabbage, cauliflower, turnips and onions are excellent examples of the result over-cooking when they come to the table with that strong "boarding-house" odor and taste instead of with the freshness of color as well as flavor which they retain when properly cooked. The "phrase strong-smelling vegetables" has passed from general usage with our modern knowledge of cooking methods.

Baked potatoes and baked apples are always popular because the unbroken skin holds in the flavor. Pears, peaches, onions and beets also have a special deliciousness when baked in their jackets.

TEMPERATURE CONTROL

In roasting meat it is important to develop flavor by controlling the temperature of the oven. Browning the surfaces of a roast develops a rich taste and makes both meat and gravy appetizing. This browning develops evenly when roasts are cooked at low temperature, 325 degrees Fahrenheit to 350 degrees Fahrenheit, but if the temperature is high the outer portion is overcooked and dry and the meat shrunken. Browning meat for stews before adding the water also develops best flavor.

Starchy foods have an undesirable flavor if they are under-cooked. Good flavor in all cereal foods depends on thorough-cooking.

The fine delicacy of a fresh egg is elusive and needs special protection. It may be lost by storage at room temperature or by contact with other more odorous foods. On the other hand the blandness of eggs makes them an excellent base for well seasoned dishes.

This recipe for eggs is a little out of the ordinary.

ZESTY BAKED EGGS

½ cup salad dressing
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon chopped parsley teaspoon spicy meat sauce cup milk
1 cup grated cheese
6 eggs
Paprika

Combine salad dressing, salt, pepper, parsley and spicy meat sauce. Beat in milk and grated cheese. Pour sauce into well-greased baking dish. Break eggs into sauce and sprinkle with paprika. Place in a pan of hot water and oven-poach in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit, until eggs are set. Yield: six servings.

For Dessert

Separate the yolks and white of four eggs. Beat the whites very stiff. Add to two cups of milk ½ cup of sugar and ½ teaspoon of vanilla extract. Bring to a boil.

Take a generous spoonful of the egg whites and place them in the just-simmering milk. When the whites swell turn them over gently, and cook on the other side for a moment or so.

Remove carefully and put on a platter. Cook three spoonfuls at a time until [illegible].

When all the egg whites have been used, beat the yolks and add them slowly to the milk so that they won't curdle. Strain into the top of a double boiler and cook until thickened. Remove and cool, then pour around islands of egg white. Set in icebox to chill slightly.

Salad Is Right for Summer Lunch or Supper

This is truly a generation of salad eaters.

The name salad is said to be the result of mispronunciation. The original "salted" became "salett" and finally "salad." Originally, it was the green leaves and raw vegetables which were eaten with salt to make the first salads. Today a salad may be made from raw or cooked foods. It may be hot or cold and light and refreshing or substantial. The dressings have gone far from the simple salt. Green leaves are still an integral part of most salads and of these lettuce is so universally used that in some locations it is called "salad plant."

A salad for luncheon or supper is perfect in Summertime. The addition of hard-cooked eggs, cheese, meat, chicken or fish to the crisp, green vegetables makes a meal that is both refreshing and satisfying.

Fresh vegetables and fruits are now available throughout the year but while the gardens and orchards are producing it pays to serve generous quantities of them.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, have these suggestions for Summer salads:

HOT STRING-BEAN SALAD

1½ lbs. string beans, cut in 1-inch pieces (4 cups cooked).
1 cup diced bologna or canned luncheon meat (¼-lb.).
2 tablespoons chopped pickle.
2 tablespoon chopped onion.
1 teaspoon cider vinegar.
⅛ teaspoon pepper.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon sugar.
1 teaspoon dry mustard.
4 hot, hard-cooked eggs, sliced.

Cook beans in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain. Combine other ingredients, except eggs, in salad bowl. Add hot beans. Mix well. Garnish with sliced hard-cooked eggs. Yield: Four servings.

NIPPY MOULDED SALAD

1 tablespoon gelatine.
¼ cup cold water.
¾ cup vinegar.
½ cup water.
¾ cup sugar.
2 teaspoons dry mustard.
½ teaspoon salt
3 eggs.
1 cup whipping cream

Soak gelatine in ¼-cup cold water for five minutes. Bring vinegar and remaining ½-cup of water to boiling point. Mix sugar, mustard and salt and add to slightly beaten eggs. Gradually add hot vinegar to egg mixture and cook slowly, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Remove from heat, add soaked gelatine and stir until dissolved. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Whip cream until quite thick but not stiff; fold into gelatine mixture. Pour into moulds which have been rinsed with cold water and chill until firm. Serve on lettuce with cold meat, salmon, devilled eggs, cabbage or mixed vegetable salad. Yield: Eight individual moulds (four cups).

SUPPER SALAD

2 cups diced cooked meat
4 tomatoes, coarsely chopped
1½ cups chopped cucumber
¼ cup chopped green onion
2 tablespoons chopped parsley.
Salad dressing

Mix the meat and vegetables with sufficient salad dressing to moisten. Serve at once on crisp lettuce. Yield: Six servings.

Minted Salad

Refreshing and especially good as a side dish with lamb is a minted tomato salad.

Mix two tablespoons of gelatin with ½ cup of cold water. Let stand a few minutes. Heat a can of tomato soup until boiling, and dissolve the gelatin in this. Mash up two cream cheeses, and add them. Garnish the bottom of a ring mold with fresh mint leaves, and pour in tomato jelly mixture. Chill, and unmold on lettuce or watercress. Serve with a tart French dressing. If you prefer a clear jelly, use tomato juice, seasoned with salt and pepper.

QUALITY TEA

One of the most important tea-producing areas in the world, both in quality and quantity, is Assam in Northern India.

Gumbo Clair

A famous chef in New York has given as the recipe for his "gombo clair" or clear gumbo, which does not call for the use of the sometimes troublesome file powder.

Put a small fowl, ½ pound of beef, and one smoked hambone into a pot filled with water and set to boil. Skim thoroughly, then add one pound of fresh okra (par boiled), one leek, two carrots, one bayleaf, a stalk of celery, and one medium-sized onion, previously browned in butter.

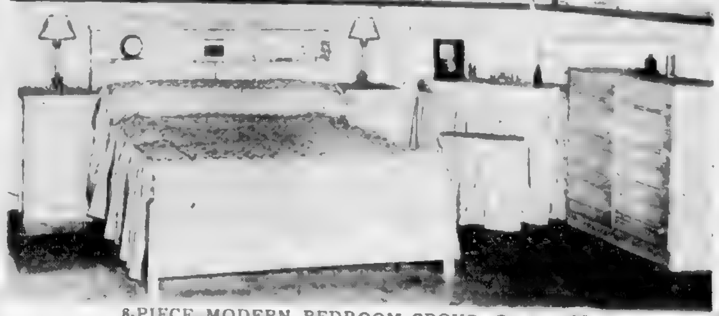

Let all simmer for 3 hours, then season with a few drops of Worcestershire sauce and salt and pepper. Strain, and serve with small pieces of cooked okra floating in the plate.

Conciliation Board Set For Carpenters' Dispute

Union and management nominees to a conciliation board which will consider matters in dispute between Local 1598 of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) and the Victoria Builders' Exchange were announced today.

Exchange nominee is V. L. Leigh, Victoria contractor, union nominee, William Page, international union representative from Vancouver.

The step follows union rejection at a meeting Tuesday of a proposal that the dispute go before an arbitration instead of a conciliation board.

Award of an arbitration board would be binding on both parties, while that of a conciliation board is not.

The carpenters, now receiving $1.55 an hour, asked $1.75 an hour when negotiations started, later reducing their demand to $1.68 an hour, rate agreed on recently in Vancouver, Port Alberni and some Nanaimo negotiations.

Also sought is a union shop clause, offered earlier by the exchange, on condition that the carpenters also accepted a $1.60-an-hour wage offer and agreed to a clause aimed at preventing work stoppages from picket action.

The union rejected the proposals.

Skeena River Floods Usk; Town Cleared

The Skeena River is in flood.

Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney said yesterday he had learned warm weather of the past few days has brought water rampaging down from the mountains.

The entire settlement of Usk, 18 miles east of Terrace, Mr. Kenney's home town, is being evacuated. In previous years floods have swept approximately 100 homes in the community.

Water is reported flooding over the highway 30 miles east of Terrace, but the road is said to be still passable.

Serious Housing Shortage Over, Study Shows

By TREVOR COLLINS

There is no longer a serious lack of housing in the Greater Victoria area, a Colonist survey indicated.

During the past year, construction has reached an all-time high and permits for new homes are being taken out almost daily.

Flats and apartments have become more easily available than at any time since the war. Rental agencies now have long lists of apartments — especially in the higher-priced brackets—and a choosy public to deal with.

However, this happy situation for tenants is not expected to have a serious lowering effect on real estate prices in the city.

For years people have been coming here from all parts of Canada. They have been doubling up with relatives, living in single rooms and generally creating an overcrowded condition.

FINDING NEW HOMES

High cost of construction is bound to keep the cost of new homes and apartments at a high level. But people living in cramped quarters will gradually find new homes and make better living conditions for all concerned. This makes it unlikely that too much rental accommodation will force house prices down in the immediate future.

Figures compiled from municipal building inspector's offices show that permits valued at approximately $7,066,400 have been issued for new apartment buildings and single family dwellings during a 12-month period from May, 1949.

Permits have included 1,068 for single family dwelling and 26 for new apartment buildings with a total of 367 suite.

On the assumption that the average single family dwelling provides accommodation for four people—including adults and children—these figures mean at least 4,264 Victorians have moved, or will be moving, into new homes.

NEW UNITS READY SOON

That figure does not include military personnel who will soon be moving into 118 new units now under construction on national defence property in Esquimalt.

These units vary in size from single family dwellings to buildings that will house ten families. Taking an average of four families, with two children each to a unit, it means that 1,840 people will be moving in from other parts of Greater Victoria.

Add that figure to the 4,264 Victorians expected to move into single family dwellings—it adds up to 6,104—and again dividing that into families of four people, it means 1,562 families have new homes, or will have shortly.

And there are still the 367 new suites in apartment buildings to be taken into consideration.

As a further indication that the housing shortage has almost reached an end, the home-seeker need only turn to the files of local newspapers.

On Sunday, June 8, 1947, The Colonist classified section listed 19 people searching for houses to rent, and 26 looking for apartments. They had a choice of one house—at Shawnigan Lake—and seven apartments in Victoria.

Now the situation is reversed. A glance at The Colonist on Sunday, June 11, 1950, provides some startling facts. Only 15 people were looking for apartments—and they had 98 to choose from. There were 32 houses for rent and 13 prospective tenants.

The facts speak for themselves. People are either leaving Victoria in ever increasing numbers or they are moving into homes of their own. And there is no indication that they are leaving town.

Although figures are not available for the exact number of residents leaving the city the outflow is considered minute compared with the enlarged population of 116,800 in the early part of 1950.

Early in 1949 the estimated population was 115,450.

Real estate men and rental agencies bear out the belief that more homes are available. Three years ago there was hardly a real estate firm in Victoria that boasted an active rental department. Landlords used to rent their houses and apartments more or less by word of mouth.

Now the landlords are almost forced to seek the aid of experienced men to rent their premises—especially in the high-priced field.

Agents report that apartments listed under $60 are easily filled, but above that rental, trouble starts.

FACING LOSS

Landlords who purchased their property at an inflated cost—and this applies mainly to conversions—are faced with a loss in revenue whichever way they turn.

The revenue from their investment was based on all the units being rented. If they can't find tenants at present high prices they lose money, and if they reduce rents they also lose.

As tenants move into new homes, so other places are left vacant. Many landlords, who have for years refused to cater to children, will have to change their tune—or suffer a loss.

Importance of Air Transport on Island Stressed by President of Chambers

The importance of air transport on Vancouver Island was stressed by H. Cuthbert Holmes, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island at a banquet held last night in the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans Club, Sidney.

"There are methods of travel by road and by air," he said, "and in the future it will be increasingly by air."

He addressed members from 24 Island chambers at a two-day convention which got under way at the Knights of Pythias Hall about 5.30 p.m.

LANDING FIELD TROUBLE

As an example of the importance that air travel plays in this modern age Mr. Holmes cited his recent trip to the United Kingdom and Continental Europe. The journey over the ocean took only a few hours.

He added that the big problem on Vancouver Island was the shortage of landing fields for aircraft.

"It is the duty of the Chamber of Commerce to consider these matters on a regional level," he said, "and develop a united plan for our air traffic."

RECENT TRIP

The speaker switched from Vancouver Island to discuss his recent trip to Great Britain.

"I am of the opinion that the British Commonwealth fills a very definite place in the stage of human progress," he declared. "Anything to break down that progress is a blow to the Commonwealth."

Mr. Holmes told of a recent meeting in England between top businessmen in Great Britain and Canada.

"Although the results of that meeting cannot yet be made public, probably not until the Canadian Chamber of Commerce convention to be held at Banff, in September—I can say briefly that British businessmen were told by Canadians what mistakes they were making and what they could do to increase British trade with Canada."

WILL RECOVER

He told the meeting that although Great Britain today was at the "breaking point" she would again stand in the "vanguard of the world."

The business meeting prior to the banquet was short with many Up-Island members arriving late.

Reason for the delay was the Mill Bay ferry, which mashed into the Brentwood ferry slip yesterday morning and was out of commission.

Mr. Holmes, chairman of the meeting, chose chairmen for various committees that would turn in reports to the convention at a meeting to be held today at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Saanichton.

Those chosen were Air Commodore S. L. G. Pope, Sidney, credentials committee; Capt. Allan Hall, Duncan, auditing committee; J. V. Johnson, Victoria, nominating committee, and George H. Benwell, Nanaimo, resolutions committee.

Members representing nearly every large centre on the Island gave a brief outline of their activities during the past year.

ASKS RESTORATION

[illegible] at the [illegible] of the [illegible] J. C. Anderson, past president of the [illegible] North Saanich Chamber of Commerce, made a plea for the restoration of the Sidney-Steveston ferry service which was cancelled earlier this year.

"Every avenue of travel from the Mainland to Vancouver Island should be maintained [illegible] not extended," declared the speaker.

Removal of the service was definitely a blow to the residents of the Saanich Peninsula and to all parts of the Island. All members should press for the restoration of this service," he concluded.

Some of the points which the resolutions committee is expected to bring up at today's meeting are:

SEEKING PARK

The Port Alberni and District Chamber of Commerce wants the Provincial Government to secure a stand of timber on the south fork of the Englishman's River for a park.

The association is expected to press for extension of the Nanaimo-Port Alberni highway to a terminus at Tofino on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

A request that the Provincial Government pass enabling legislation making it mandatory for municipal councils to place at least 50 per cent of all funds received from the three per cent sales tax to the credit of school boards.

MAY CRITICIZE ROADS

Condition of the Victoria-Nanaimo stretch of the Island Highway is also expected to come under fire.

G. C. Parrott, a Victoria delegate, told the convention at the earlier meeting the road north of Nanaimo was superb but declared that on the southern section "there was a lot of work to be done yet."

He suggested that more attention should be paid to the feeder roads on the Island.

"They are the backbone of the Island's industry," he declared.

Mr. Holmes also had a few words to say about Vancouver Island roads.

"Vancouver Island has had a governor for about a 100 years," he said, "but we still haven't got a road north and south or east and west."

Princess Margaret Not Coming Here

LONDON, June 14 (CP).—Buckingham Palace said today that as far as is officially known, Princess Margaret has no definite plans for visiting Canada and the United States.

An increasing number of engagements suggests that Princess Margaret is officially coming of age.

Although she will not be 21 for 15 months—she is 20 next August 21—she is becoming as active at official functions as any other member of the Royal Family.

The vivacious Princess now makes several speeches a week.

A year ago she was making what might be called instructional visits to the House of Commons, the financial district of London, and other places. That phase of her public life appears to be over and the Princess now is on her own.

A spokesman at Buckingham Palace meanwhile said that as far as is officially known Princess Margaret has no definite plans for visiting Canada and the United States.

Such reports were current a year ago and were current again today.

"There was no truth in the reports then, and as far as we know there is none now," the spokesman said.

Seek Link Between U.S.-Canada Uranium

Central Press Canadian

Pickled Cherries

Select two pounds of large fresh cherries leaving the stems on. Wash, and pack in sterilized jar. Put one cup of vinegar, one cup of water, one teaspoon of sugar and one teaspoon of salt in a saucepan. Add eight whole cloves in a little muslin bag. Bring to a boil and let cool. Remove the spice bag and pour the liquid over the cherries in the jars. Seal and store.

This should give you about two pint jars of cherries.

Profit-Taking Causes Decline in New York

By I.N.S. and C.P.

The New York Stock Market heralded the first anniversary of the start of its year-long rise in prices yesterday with its sharpest decline in more than five months.

On June 14, 1949, stocks began an historic rise which lifted the Dow-Jones industrial averages a total of $66.78 a share to a 20-year high level attained last Monday.

Today, for the second successive session, persistent profit-taking took a heavy toll of values. Leading issues dropped $1 to nearly $3 a share, with the industrial averages sustaining a loss of $3.12 a share. This was the widest single day's drop since January 12 when the averages were down $3.68 a share. The industrial averages had sold off $1.94 a share yesterday, so the combined loss in the industrials for the two days amounted to $5.06 a share.

NO EXPLANATION

There was no special reason to explain the setback yesterday or today. However, many advisory services had been suggesting that clients cash in some of their profits, and this advice, coupled with a lack of aggressive buying of the motor shares, which had featured last week's upsurge, was held partly to blame for the downturn.

Volume was not unusually heavy, amounting to 1,650,000 shares today as compared with 1,760,000 yesterday. Sales last Friday, when the market was rising to new highs, totaled 2,450,000 shares.

LEADERS BOUNCE

Prices rose the roller-coaster on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

Market leaders bounced between the plus and minus columns in highly irregular dealings. Activity continued at the rapid rate of recent markets with low-priced mining stocks accounting for much of the turnover. Volume was about 3,200,000 shares.

Industrials opened weaker, suddenly jumped ahead to new high levels at noon, lost most of the advantage in the next hour and firmed towards the close. Papers, foods, agricultures and a few banks showed an easier tone. Refining oils and liquors were almost solidly upwards and utilities brightened slightly.

OILS IRREGULAR

Western oils, features in two previous sessions this week when heavy buying pulled the list to the highest average price levels in 13 years, were also irregular. Market leaders edged higher early in the day but encountered a wall of profit-taking that wiped out gains towards the close.

Golds were sluggish. Base metals bounced into slightly firmer ground after starting in the minus column.

STRONGER TREND

In Montreal a stronger trend prevailed in active trading near the final hour on the Montreal Stock Exchange and Curb Market.

Steel issues were strong; the common, heavily traded, advanced 1⅛ points at 29 while the preferred was up 1 at 29.

Moderate advances dominated the industrial section.

Utilities were weaker but changes generally ranged in fractions.

Mines and Western oils followed the trend.

Continue Price Support On Bacon Past June 30

OTTAWA, June 14 (CP). — The Government will continue price support on bacon beyond the previously-announced termination date of June 30.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner told the Commons that the 32-cent per pound level on Grade A Wiltshire sides will be paid until the Government is able to obtain all the 80,000,000 pounds of bacon required to fill the 1950 Anglo-Canadian contract. So far the Government has been able to obtain only about 17,000,000 pounds.

REGULATIONS SAME

Mr. Gardiner, replying to Gayton Hodgson (PC—Victoria, Ont.) said the Government had decided on continuation of the premium program only "a half-hour" before he made the announcement in the Commons.

"That means it will go right on just as it is from July 1 on," Mr. Gardiner said. "All other regulations with regard to the handling of pork products will go along in the same manner as they are going along now."

This would appear to indicate that the Government has no intention of lifting the embargo on the shipment of bacon into the United States, a step forecast as a possibility after June 30 by Mr. Gardiner when he announced the price support program January 31 last.

CHARGE UP LOSS

Under the price support program, the Government buys bacon at 32½ cents a pound and sells it to the United Kingdom at 29 cents, charging the loss of 3½ cents a pound to the Government's revolving $200,000,000 price-support program.

However, domestic prices have been so buoyant during the last few months that the Government has been unable to buy all the bacon needed to fill the contract at the support level.

The fact that pork prices in Canada have risen brought the question from Mr. Hodgson as to why bacon "took such a big jump just lately from 90 cents a pound to as high as $1.25 a pound."

"Well, I suppose it is because hogs took a jump from $26.50 to $32," Mr. Gardiner replied.

Dividends Top $400,000

VANCOUVER, June 15 (Thursday).—Dividend payments of Home Oil Company Limited topped the $4,000,000 mark today.

The June 15 distribution of 25 cents per share amounting to $490,000 is the fifth successive payment at six monthly intervals at this rate and the 11th successive dividend since 1942.

In a report accompanying dividend cheques to approximately 9,000 shareholders, Major James R. Lowery, president, reminds them that Home is still the second largest producer of oil in Canada, being the largest producer in Turner Valley and the second largest in Leduc.

Since the report for 1949 was issued showing 19 completed wells in the Woodbend area, seven more have been successful, bringing to 26 the Woodbend wells in which the company has 27½ per cent interest.

London Market Again Hesitant

LONDON, June 14 (Reuters).—The London Stock Exchange showed hesitancy today and price movements were generally to slightly lower levels.

Business in British Government stocks was checked by a disposition to await the terms of the British coal stock to be issued as compensation for nationalization of collieries.

Interest in industrials was small and prices were never really tested. Textiles, irons and steels were a few pence off where changed.

Feature of the international section was a sharp rise in Canadian Pacific common to $31⅛ on rumors of an oil strike in Alberta.

Rubber shares continued to be unsettled by commodity price movements and moved lower on a stream of small sales. Changes in oils were small and irregular.

Closing quotes: Babcock & Wilcox 63s, Boots Pure Drug 49s 9d; Canadian Pacific $31⅝; Central Mining £2 7 16, Consolidated Gold Fields 56s; Courtaulds 38s; Hudson's Bay Co 79s 4½d; Imperial Chemical 41s 1½d; Imperial Tobacco 106s 10½d; Metal Box 90s 6d; Mexican Eagle 18s 7½d; Rand Mines 31s 3d.

Grains Record Sharp Losses

WINNIPEG, June 14 (CP).—Selling expanded today on the latter half of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange session, with sharp losses recorded in all coarse grains except flax where there was no trading.

A large part of the offerings were on American accounts with some local selling but a limited commercial demand.

Some selling was prompted by a forecast of showers for the Prairie grain belt, and favorable returns from American harvest operations.

Early trading was quiet but expanded later in the session.

There was some buying by local interests in rye following early price declines.

No export business was reported in Canadian wheat.

Class two wheat, for export to other than the United Kingdom, was unchanged at $2.06.

Issue Permits For Big Jobs Within City

A $500,000 addition to St. Joseph's Hospital on Collinson Street was authorized. Architect employed on this project is Henry Whittaker; contractor is Sullivan Construction Company, of Vancouver.

TO BUILD ADDITION

The B.C. Electric Co. was issued a permit to erect a $67,000 addition to its existing building on Garbally Road. Parfitt Construction Co. is handling the job. H. Allen is architect.

A third permit authorized construction of a five-suite $20,000 apartment at 1811 Oak Bay Avenue.

LONDON (CP).—A racing trophy made from the gold of the Ascot Cup won by St. Simon in 1884 has been sold at Sotheby's for £1,550 ($4,805).

BOND TRADE QUIET

MONTREAL, June 14 (CP).—Trading was quiet on the bond market today. Dominions, Provincials and Corporations were generally unchanged.

Vancouver Indians Bruise Shamrocks

Victoria Boxla Falls Apart in Last Frame As Surging Tribesmen Capture 8-5 Win

Adanacs	6	4	141	141	12
SHAMROCKS	5	5	120	106	10
Salmonbellies	5	5	143	140	10
Burrards	5	5	126	141	10
Richmond Kerr	3	7	116	141	6

Next game tonight, Burrards vs. Salmonbellies, Vancouver Forum.

After holding a 5-3, third-quarter lead, Victoria Shamrocks fell apart in the final period to drop a bruising, 8-5, Inter-City Lacrosse League decision to Vancouver Indians before [illegible] paying customers at Memorial Arena last night.

Making their first start under the seven-man system, the Shamrocks twice came from behind to gain their 5-3 advantage at the half. Neither club was able to score in the third session and the Victorians still couldn't solve the jarring Indian defence in the final quarter, while their usually solid checking was suddenly full of holes.

Shifty Glen Johnson and Marion Cervi paced the winning attack. Johnson tallied twice within a minute to deadlock the count at 5-5 and Cervi whipped two long shots past Goalie Bill Andrews midway through the final session to boost the visitors into the lead. Larry Crema added an insurance marker in the dying minutes.

FIRST APPEARANCE

Coach Bill Dickinson made his first appearance of the season for the Indians and picked up a pair of assists in the final scoring surge. Even without the valuable services of Captain Wally Henderson the Tribesmen were a vastly improved club over the one that absorbed a 12-4 scalping from the Shamrocks on June 2. They fully deserved their victory on the strength of the final drive although the Victorians missed several wide-open opportunities in the third quarter that should have netted them a commanding lead.

Referees Tommy McKeachie and Sid Greenwood came in for criticism from many of the fans for their inconsistent calls. The rugged brand of boxla raised tempers to the boiling point on many occasions with Victoria's Len Scott and Ed Bell tossing punches in the first quarter and Fred Ranson mixing with Indians' Alf Brenner in the fourth.

LOST CHANCE

On the Mainland last night, Salmonbellies lost a chance to go into a tie for the league lead with the Indians and Adanacs when the cellar dwelling Richmond-Kerrisdale outfit handed the Fishmen an 18-10 beating.

Roddy McLeod playing his first game for the Kerries, after transferring from Burrards, turned in his best effort of the season with five goals and three assists to spark the winners' attack.

Behind, 1-4 in the first quarter Richmond sprinted into an 8-5 half-time lead. Passing the [illegible] like champions, the Kerries stretched their advantage to 14-7 at the three-quarter mark.

Thompson Hustles A's Out of Cellar

Heads-Up Base-Running by Outfielder Big Help as Chiefs Lose in Ten Frames

Salem	27	27	.500

Gene Thompson hustled the Victoria Athletics out of the WIL cellar for the second time this season as he led the way to a ten-inning 5-4 win over Wenatchee Chiefs at Royal Athletic Park. Only about 750 fans braved the cool night to see one of the season's better games.

BIG JOHN TONIGHT

The triumph, coupled with Salem's win at Vancouver, put the A's six percentage points ahead of the Caps. They get a chance to move close to the fourth-place Salem club tonight when the Senators open a four-game series here. Tonight's game looms up as an interesting battle. John Marshall will be after his ninth straight victory for the A's but may have a battle on his hands. Salem's starter is almost certain to be lean John Tierney, who boasts an 11-2 record for the season. Tierney has seen no action since he bested Bob Kerrigan Sunday and should be ready.

THIRD FOR PROPST

Thompson played a leading role last night as Jim Propst scored his third win after a tense struggle with Tom Breisinger, promising young Wenatchee lefthander. Propst survived two shaky innings midway through the game and appeared to get stronger in the late innings as his teammates rallied to pull it out against the stubborn Breisinger who contributed largely to his own defeat with three obvious balks, two of which put runs in scoring position and costly bases on balls.

The A's twice took one-run leads, scoring in the first on a walk to Jim Moore, a balk and Jim Wert's single, and in the fifth on singles by Al Ronning and Moore sandwiched around a base on balls to Propst.

Larry Neal's double and single by Lil Arnerich after two were out gave the Chiefs their first run in the fifth, and they took a 3-2 lead in the sixth when Joe Unfried lined a bases-loaded triple over Thompson's head. Propst's double, a balk and Junior Krag's infield bounder, which saw Propst slide under Larry Neal's toss to the plate, made it 4-3 in the seventh.

The big outfielder opened the eighth with a single and moved up on K. Charlton's bunt. He broke for third when Breisinger was careless in pitching to the plate and had the bag cleanly stolen. His hard slide blocked Don Fracchia from making a play on Catcher Len Neal's throw and Thompson picked himself up to score easily as the ball went into left field. He then opened the tenth by drawing a walk and raced all the way to the lock-in station when the Chiefs left third uncovered in playing Charlton's bunt.

Manager Rupe Thompson ordered Joe Kronberg and Don Alfano, new Victoria shortstop, purposely walked to fill the bags. Ronning lined a hard-hit ball to left field and although Thompson probably could have scored after the catch, Walt Poceka made it easy when he dropped the ball.

NEW INFIELDER

Alfano arrived in Victoria late Tuesday night and was promptly inserted in the line-up at shortstop with Bill Dunn sitting it out. Although he over-ran his first fielding chance in the first inning to be charged with an error, he handled himself well afield and had a single and two walks in five trips.

In addition to his heads-up base running Thompson pulled off the best fielding play of the night in the tenth when he bounced off the wire netting in gathering in Fracchia's foul fly after a long run.

Hogan to Seek To Be First Triple Winner

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y., June 14 (INS).—Bantam Ben Hogan will try, starting tomorrow, to become the first man ever to win the Palm Beach Round Robin golf title three times, and few, if any, would wager against his chances.

Hogan, who completed a comeback from a near-killing automobile accident by winning the National Open for the second time last Sunday, took the Palm Beach event (then known as the Goodall Round Robin) in 1940 and 1946.

Only Bobby Locke, the South African, besides Hogan, has won the tournament twice. He took it for the second time last year, but will not be back to make a defence or, incidentally, to pursue the top prize of $3,000.

THREE WINNERS

Of previous winners, the only ones back in the competition which calls for five rounds through Sunday, are Hogan, Sam Snead and Herman Barron.

The rest of the field of 16 includes Art Bell, Jr.; Jackie Burke, Jimmy Demaret, George Fazio, Jim Ferrier, Vic Ghezzi, Fred Haas, Jr.; Chick Harbert, Claude Harmon, Lawson Little, Lloyd Mangrum, Cary Middlecoff and Norman Von Nida.

Goodfellow New Coach Of Hawks

CHICAGO, June 14 (AP).—Ebbie Goodfellow today signed a three-year contract to coach Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League.

The new Hawk pilot who managed St. Louis Flyers of the American Hockey League for the last two years, succeeds Charlie Conacher who resigned to devote his time to business affairs in Toronto.

Goodfellow, 44, is a native of Ottawa. He was a star in the N.H.L. for 14 years playing centre and defence for Detroit Red Wings. He won the most valuable player trophy in 1939-40 and was twice chosen for assistant to Jack Adams, manager of the Wings.

He brought St. Louis from last place to the championship of the Western division of the league by the end of the 1948-49 season. Last season, his St. Louis team finished third in the league but lost out in the playoffs to Indianapolis, which went on to capture the post-season championship.

Lumbermen, Cabbies Battle to 4-4 Tie

Next game, tomorrow, Chinese Students vs. Brentwood Aces.

The competition is getting tighter in the Senior A Men's Softball League.

Last night at Upper Central, Bluebird Cabs and B.C. Forest Products, two of the weaker fielding clubs, came up with sparkling defensive performances and battled through 11 innings to a 4-4 tie.

DROVE IN ALL RUNS

Actually the score should have read Forest Products 4, Cliff McKay 4. McKay drove in all Bluebird runs with a long homer with two men aboard in the fifth and a long fly with the bases loaded via free passes in the seventh. He came close to driving in the winning run in the bottom of the ninth when he hit a long smash, ticketed for extra bases, to right centre with a runner at first but Doug Hudlin made a brilliant running catch to retire the side.

Barry Jackson, knocked out early in Tuesday's game, started on the mound for the Millmen and had little trouble with the other Cabbie batters, spacing six hits over five innings. He walked ten and struck out two.

SURVIVED SHAKY START

Charlie McKay did the heavy work for the Bluebirds and survived a shaky start. He gave up three runs and seven hits in the first four innings but got stronger as the game progressed and gave up but three singles in the last seven frames. He walked nine and struck out four.

The Loggers opened the scoring with two runs in the first on singles by Gus Hilton, John Kennedy and Mickey Smith, and added another in the second on singles by Jackson and Hilton, an infield out and Kennedy's long fly. Singles by Kennedy and Jack Battie sandwiching a walk produced the tying run in the eighth.

Outfielders of [illegible] had a busy night, dividing 26 putouts evenly.

U.S. Favored To Retain Wightman Cup

LONDON, June 14 (INS).—The United States Wightman Cup women's tennis team was made a strong favorite today in the draw for the international matches with Great Britain at Wimbledon, Friday and Saturday.

The Stateside girls, who have won the cup 13 straight times, appear to pack too much class for the British team. The last time Britain won was in 1930.

The competition each year is decided by the best four out of seven matches.

Today's draw made Friday's line-up:

Amateur Ron Clark of Dalles, Oregon, yesterday won the 72-hole Pendleton Open Golf Tournament with a three-under-par 277. Top pro money went to Ken Tucker of Everett, Washington, with a 283.

McNulty Stops Capilanos

Bill McNulty, just down from the Portland Beavers, salvaged the last game of the series for Salem last night as he hurled the Senators to a 9-3 triumph over Vancouver Capilanos. McNulty had little trouble as his mates drove Kevin King to the showers in the third inning and hit Bob Costello freely. Mel Wasley sealed King's doom with a three-run homer in the third.

At Tacoma, the Tigers staved off a ninth-inning rally to edge Yakima Bears, 10-9. Don Carter, coasting along with a 10-4 lead, almost lost it when the Bears shoved over five runs in the ninth. Reno Cheso's three-run double and Lou Novikoff's triple were the big hits of the rally.

INDIANS BOOT ONE

Rookie shortstop Chuck Davcost Spokane Indians a win at Kennewick as Tri-City Braves eked out a 5-4 victory. The Indians were ahead in the ninth 4-3, when the Braves loaded the bags with one out. Neil Bryant socked a perfect double-play ball to Davis, who threw past second into right field to permit the tying and winning runs. Jim Olsen got the win for four-plus innings of good relief pitching.

Using Train To View Race

MARIETTA, O., June 14 (AP).—One of the world's largest passenger trains—42 cars and two Diesel engines—will carry spectators along the Ohio River Saturday for the United States Inter-Collegiate Rowing Association regatta.

Some 3,600 passengers will watch rowing crews and 13 colleges from the observation train believed to be unique in the history of water sports.

The train will be composed of gondola-type freight cars. In each will be built-in wooden bleachers five tiers deep and seating 140 persons. The train was assembled by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

When the United States Post Office Department ruled that fish are caught by chance and not through application of any special skills, it was a lot closer to the truth than most fishermen would like to believe.

Now, don't take my word for it. Realizing that a fellow who made ten fishless trips to Cowichan Bay last Summer and sat bemused while his partner boated 18 fish between 20 and 32 pounds could be classed as prejudiced, I went out and got what should be qualified opinion to back up my belief. I queried two well-known Victoria tackle dealers who, although not exactly renowned as successful fishermen, would presumably be loathe to admit fishing was all luck. Could be bad for business, you know.

Tommy Forbes threw caution to the winds. "No doubt about it," he snorted. "It's pure unadulterated luck. I've got plenty of skill but I never catch any fish. Of course it's luck."

Stan Williams, my second quarry, was quite cautious. "There's a certain amount of luck," he said guardedly, elaborating at some length on that statement without explaining it or coming any closer to a direct answer. He managed to evade a direct answer for some time but I put the pressure on.

"Isn't it true," I asked, "that you can only catch baby salmon? And isn't it true that one could reasonably suppose that grilse are much more naive when it comes to discerning the difference between a meal and a lure?"

Pressing my advantage as I saw him weakening under the insidious force of my logic, I stayed on the attack. "If fishing is skill," I asked, "then why do you persist in calling me a 'lucky so-and-so' every time you see me with a fish?"

Completely flustered he failed to remember he probably had never seen me with a fish and gave up the argument. "Okay okay. So it's all luck," he said resignedly. Then, brightening, "I guess that's why I never catch any."

A man convinced against his will. . . .

Record Crowd at Toronto

English Internationals Down Manchester United

TORONTO, June 14 (CP).—An all-time record crowd of 24,809 for sports in Canada, apart from horse racing, saw the English Internationals defeat Manchester United, 4-2, in an exhibition soccer game.

It was a "prestige" game for both clubs and the spectators were kept in an almost continual uproar.

The United, English first division team, led 2-1 at half time on goals by Centre-Forward Jack Rowley, at the ten-minute mark and Outside Left Charlie Mitten, with 12 minutes of the half to play. Jimmy Hagan, inside left with Sheffield United, opened the scoring for the Internationals five minutes after the start of the game.

BOWYER EVENS COUNT

In the second half, Frank Bowyer, inside right from Stoke City, evened the count for the Internationals.

Johnny Hancocks, outside left with Wolverhampton Wanderers, crashed through the entire Manchester team to make it 3-2 and he duplicated the feat with only six minutes remaining.

The Internationals started out strongly and after Hagan's goal, a header on a pass from the brilliant Stanley Matthews, it appeared as if they would overwhelm the United. But Manchester came back strongly to steal the play and hold a big edge from the 20-minute mark until the half-time whistle.

BESTED DEFENDERS

Manchester kept up the pressure in the second half until Bowyer's goal, the best of the night. It was scored on a pass from Hagan, who dribbled past three United defenders immediately in front of the nets. Bowyer's drive easily beat United Goalkeeper Jack Compton.

From that point on the Internationals took over and it was only in the last few minutes that Manchester was able to penetrate the all-stars rock-like defence.

Vernon Going To Washington

ST. LOUIS, June 14 (INS).—The Washington Senators traded pitcher Dick Weik to the Cleveland Indians today for first-baseman Mickey Vernon.

Weik is a 22-year-old righthander. He has won one game and lost three this year. His record last season was three victories and 13 defeats.

Vernon batted .291 in 153 games with the Indians last year. He formerly played with Washington between 1940 and 1948 and won the American League batting championship in 1946 with an average of .353.

No cash was involved in the transaction.

Just what is the Red Sox mystery? Or is there any mystery? A flock of ballplayers from the Cleveland Indians and Philadelphia Athletics attending the recent U S golf open at Merion, had their reports to file.

"I'd like to be a pitcher on that team," one of them said. "They've got a team batting average of .315."

"How can they ever lose a game?" another added. "In addition to a team average of .315 they have five regulars batting over .330. They have the leading home-run hitters and three of them lead in runs batted in."

This happens to be true. To date, the Red Sox have made almost 100 runs and 100 hits more than any other team. Look at these batting averages: Zarilla .395, Dropo .374, Pesky .358, Goodman .346, Dom DiMaggio .343, Williams .333, Tebbetts .327.

"I'd give you my answer," a veteran Cleveland ballplayer said. "They are two different teams at home and on the road. At home average fly balls sail over their short fences. There same fly balls are easy outs in most ball parks.

"They are full of pep at home. They are lifeless on the road. When the home runs at home turn into outs on the road, it makes a different game. They are good hitters as a bunch, but they are not that good."

A year ago the Red Sox failed to break even on the road. They had trouble even with the Browns, White Sox and Senators. But they could murder these three teams and most others in their own backyard. Around June Fourth in 1949 the Red Sox were back of the leaders by some 13 games. They should do much better this coming Fourth, but still they won't be as good as their attack indicates. While they are making a carload of runs, the teams they play are doing the same.

It was the general opinion of the golfing ballplayers that the Tigers should finish in front this year through solid hitting and a good pitching staff.

"Red Rolfe's team looks tough to me," Joe Gordon said. "They have a great outfield, a pretty good infield and a fine pitching staff. So far Red Sox pitchers haven't come up to their expected strength."

It is quite possible the shorter fences may be at least part of the answer. What would the shorter barriers affect the other teams the same way? One answer is that the Red Sox play 77 games in Fenway Park and the other teams play only 11 apiece.

A Pennant Is Tough to Win

Some 15 or 16 years ago an enterprising sportsman named Tom Yawkey decided to give Boston a few American League pennants. Owner Yawkey had money enough to buy almost anything a keen desire to win at any game he played, and a pretty fair ball club including Joe Cronin. Yet at the end of some 15 or 16 years, plus an outlay of between $1,000,000 and $4,000,000, Tom Yawkey and his Red Sox have won one pennant.

Three years ago with a lineup that looked to be the best in baseball, Yawkey brought in Joe McCarthy, certainly one of the game's best managers. If you don't believe McCarthy was good, talk to Bill Dickey and practically all his old players with the Yankees. But here, with all the money to spend one might need with the best-looking material in either league for three years with a great manager, the Red Sox are discovering again that winning a pennant is a pretty rugged assignment.

It has been charged that Yawkey paid his men too much money. This doesn't seem to make any sense. The angle was that no Red Sox player had to hustle for a big pay check. Knowing most of them personally, the idea seems a bit ridiculous. You won't find a nicer bunch than the Red Sox players are. Maybe they are too nice? That doesn't go either. They are ballplayers. Look at their team batting average. Look at the home runs and runs-driven-in by Williams, Dropo and Stephens. Look at the batting averages of Dom DiMaggio and Johnny Pesky. This squad set down on copy paper looks equipped to win a pennant by ten or 12 games.

It so happens that Tom Yawkey is a very determined young man. Almost anyone else would have given his ball club away or paid to have it hauled away. Whatever may happen to the Red Sox, the sedate city of Boston is to be congratulated on having a Yawkey around to prove how much of a beating a game man can take—and still not quit.

Joe Page's reputation as a great relief pitcher apparently carries little weight with the Chicago White Sox.

The New York Yankees called on Page to rescue Allie Reynolds in the ninth inning of yesterday's game with the Chicagoans. The White Sox had tied the score at two-all and had two men on and two out.

It was a typical "Page situation. The famous left-handed fireman went to the mound and on the third pitch Dave Philley smacked a drive into the left centrefield stands for a three-run homer and a 5 to 2 White Sox victory.

It was the second straight ninth inning win for Chicago over New York. Last night they turned the Stengelmen back, 6 to 5, and the pitcher who served up the winning hit was—none other than the [illegible] Mr. Joe Page.

TIGERS MARK TIME

Detroit's pace-setting Tigers failed to gain any ground in the American League dropping an 8-2 decision to the lowly Philadelphia Athletics to remain a scant half-game ahead of the Yankees.

Lou Brissie was aided by a 13-hit Philadelphia attack in gaining the A's first win over Detroit in eight games. It was Brissie's second triumph against eight setbacks. His other victory was gained at the expense of the Yankees.

Cleveland Indians topped Boston Red Sox, 7-3, in a battle of home runs. Al Rosen hit his 16th and Larry Doby and Lou Boudreau posted four-baggers for the Indians while Ted Williams with his 19th and Vern Stephens hit for the circuit for the Boxox.

Washington Senators pushed St. Louis Browns back into the cellar as Chico Marrero pitched a four-hit 4-1 victory to give the Nats their first triumph over the Browns in eight games.

CARDS INCREASE LEAD

St. Louis Cardinals increased the National League lead to three and a half games over Brooklyn Dodgers by edging Philadelphia Phils 4-2 in the only game in the circuit to escape the weather. Max Lanier posted his fourth straight victory with a six-hitter as the Redbirds chalked up their 15th triumph in 18 games.

Golf--- Here's How

By SAM SNEAD

Golf's Greatest Player-Teacher

The speed which your club attains in the forward swing results largely from the leverage of your swing. Keep your straight left leg. The straight left leg is the fulcrum of your swing. Now if you deliberately seek to make the club go you will be very apt to reduce the leverage and so actually slow your clubhead. The reason? If you apply swing pressure beyond your rhythm point you do so by changing your weight distribution. So you can't fight hit against your left leg fulcrum. Suppose you had depressed a spring board for a flying dive and, just at the moment when your weight had depressed it to the maximum the board gave away. Your dive would be a flop. Your fulcrum is the spring board for your golf swing.

Meeting Set for July 22

To Decide if Puck Loops Stay in C.A.H.A. Realm

VANCOUVER, June 14 (CP)—A Toronto meeting July 22 may decide whether Canada's five high-priced senior hockey leagues will withdraw from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association (C.A.H.A.), Peter Dunn, Grimston interested here, said.

The C.A.H.A. will meet with representatives from the five Western Canada Ontario Association, Quebec, Maritime and Cape Breton to iron out details of the contract clause introduced to senior hockey during the annual meeting at Banff, Alta.

NO HOLD ON PLAYERS

The contract system proposed by the C.A.H.A. is that leads an answer to a new deal requested by these leagues. Their specific complaint was that under the old system players were costly to obtain and maintain, yet that had no permanent hold on them.

The C.A.H.A. will insist on a termination clause in the contract system. The leagues probably will insist on a contract giving their teams protection in holding players from one season to another.

Grimston, newly elected president, said the C.A.H.A. will not retreat from its stand on the termination clause. If the five senior leagues stand pat on their demand it can only mean severance from jurisdiction of the C.A.H.A., he said.

Asked if that would mean the leagues involved would become professional, Grimson said:

"I would imagine so. It is entirely up to them. But I think some of them would go broke."

Grimston said the C.A.H.A. strong stand on the type of contract it is willing to condone is dictated by the fact that out of 74,000 hockey players certified to the C.A.H.A., only 600 are in the five leagues which can be regarded as professional in operation.

"The smaller leagues haven't had a chance against those five leagues in recent years," Grimston said. "We've got to stabilize the Allan Cup and put it back on a Canada-wide basis."

"The Banff meeting decided that the five leagues will be ineligible for Allan Cup competition. They will play for a separate trophy.

"In three years British Columbia teams have won only one game in play-offs against the Western Canada League leading to Allan Cup play-offs," Grimston said.

"Manitoba and Thunder Bay have been completely out of the picture, too. And the Maritime leagues, although they stand with the others, haven't got anywhere either."

In the nick of time he slides—to safety! And sportsmen—watching—breathe easily again . . . relax and light up a Sportsman Cigarette.

Uncle Wiggily Story

By Howard Garis

TEENIE WILL LOOK

Uncle Wiggily, with Buster Bunty and many of the animal girls and boys, were having a picnic on Mud Turtle Island in Frog Pond. Everything was lovely. Bunty had set out on a stump table a fine picnic lunch when all of a sudden the little [illegible] rabbit [illegible] find her doll Priscilla.

"Where is she? Where is Priscilla?" Bunty [illegible] around the trees and bushes near the stump table. "Priscilla, where are you?"

"Where did you leave your doll?" Uncle Wiggily asked. The jolly old rabbit gentleman was twinkling his pink nose. It was twinkling [illegible] for Mr. [illegible] had just eaten a piece of carrot shortcake. "Where did you leave Priscilla, Bunty?"

"I left her asleep on this bed of moss," answered Bunty.

"Perhaps Jingle or Jangle took Priscilla to play with," said Uncle Wiggily.

"No, they didn't," said Bunty. "Jingle and Jangle are over near that big rock. They are playing with some dolls they made out of [illegible] and big acorns. They [illegible] Priscilla."

"Perhaps Buster or some of his [illegible]," Bunty.

"No, Uncle Wiggily, I don't believe so. Buster and the boys are playing baseball. Besides, Buster doesn't like Priscilla. He wouldn't take her. He says she cries too much."

"Well, most baby dolls [illegible] Uncle Wiggily. [illegible] perhaps Double Dip [illegible] little [illegible]."

"I know he did once to get her

'Oh, where is my dear doll?'

to make some ice cream for him," admitted Bunty. "But I know Double Dip is playing ball so I'm sure he didn't take Priscilla. Oh, where is my dear doll?"

"Have there been any strangers here in our picnic camp on the island?" Uncle Wiggily wanted to know. "Any of the big mud turtles for instance?"

"The only turtle who was here," answered Bunty, "was Teenie, the little turtle from Big Tree Land. You remember Teenie, don't you, Uncle Wiggily?"

"Of course, Bunty. You and Buster painted a picture on Teenie's back and he won a prize on Painted Turtle Day in Big Tree Land."

"That's right, Uncle Wiggily. Teenie was very glad to see me again. But he didn't take my doll. Priscilla was still asleep on the bed of [illegible] when Teenie crawled away. So [illegible]."

"[illegible] very strange," said Uncle Wiggily who felt sorry for Bunty. "As soon as Buster and his comrades have finished their ball game I'll ask them to go look for your lost doll."

"Thank you, Uncle Wiggily. I'm sure that will help. Buster is a rabbit scout and he knows how to find things that are lost."

"[illegible] hop over and speak to him now," offered Uncle Wiggily. "[illegible] the game [illegible]. Oh, here [illegible] Teenie, the turtle."

"Has Teenie my doll?" asked Bunty, [illegible] toward the little turtle.

"No, Teenie doesn't seem to have anything except a bunch of watercress," answered Uncle Wiggily. "He's coming nearer."

"Oh, but he's so slow," exclaimed Bunty. "But I suppose he can't help that being a turtle. I'll hop to meet him." This the orphan rabbit did. She met Teenie near a little mud puddle. "Oh, Teenie, have you seen my doll, Priscilla?" Bunty asked. "She has disappeared."

"No, Bunty, I haven't seen your doll. But I will go look for her. I'll go look right away," Teenie [illegible]. Bunty [illegible]. Buster gave a loud shout. Then all the ball [illegible].

I'll tell you more about that tomorrow if the cooking gas will crawl under the bed to see if it can find the puppy dog's lost rubber bone that he plays with.

South was optimistic in contracting for the grand slam. He had no doubt [illegible] there was neither a heart nor a club loser in the combined hands. However, as sometimes happens, this optimism was rewarded.

West knew his [illegible] opponents [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] with the hope that a [illegible] would [illegible] up. West led a low club [illegible] he hoped [illegible] in that suit.

So declarer put up dummy's club ace, cashed [illegible] dummy, then led the club queen through East.

East correctly covered the club queen [illegible] the first [illegible] lead of the nine-spot and South ruffed. A trump put dummy in again for the lead of the spade king, and [illegible] East [illegible] ruffed away. Finally declarer [illegible] the rest of the trumps [illegible] a heart and the [illegible] spade from dummy. Prey to Bribery and Pressure

Suggest Low-Bracket Alien Employees In U.S. Missions Abroad Be Fired

WASHINGTON, June 14 (INS).—A Senate loyalty sub-committee declared today that low-salaried alien employees of U.S. missions abroad are made "prey to bribery and to pressure" and should be fired in the interests of security.

The two-man sub-committee—Senators Green (D., R.I.), and Lodge (R., Mass.)—also asserted in a report on secret overseas hearings that many alien employees whose loyalty has not been checked "have access to classified material."

AT RISK OF LIFE

Green and Lodge emphasized that all Russian outposts "are completely staffed by Russians." The report recalled that a sick Russian employee in London was flown to Moscow "at the risk of his life . . . for fear he might talk while under an anesthetic."

The report said that "aliens are the most likely means of foreign penetration and the effort to penetrate our security abroad is constantly growing."

Other developments in the Communist-infiltration probe and the overall security picture included:

1. Sen. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa), charged that the Amerasia stolen documents investigation has merely "scratched the surface" and demanded that F.B.I. Director Hoover and Supreme Court Justice Clark be called to testify.

SHOULD BE QUERIED

2. Hickenlooper said Hoover should be questioned on his reported statement that the F.B.I. had an airtight case in 1945 against the Amerasia defendants and that Clark, then head of the Justice Department Criminal Division, should tell whether there was a "whitewash" order.

3. Sen. Malone (R., Nev.) asserted that President Truman's loyalty review board has functioned only as a whitewash board." Malone urged that the board be reconstituted as an independent agency, with members appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

OVERSEAS HEARING

The Green-Lodge report covered hearings in Paris and in Frankfurt, Germany, as well as conferences with State Department security officials in Washington and New York.

The two senators urged that wherever possible United States diplomatic missions be housed in American-owned buildings. They pointed out that security "depends upon physical as well as personnel factors."

Green and Lodge charged that in neither Frankfurt nor Berlin have "all reasonable physical security precautions" been taken.

Plan to Renew Hunt for Plane Carrying Four

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., June 14 (INS).—Plans to renew the search for a good-will plane with four Portland people aboard, missing since March 21, were announced today by the Klamath Falls Air Search and Rescue unit.

Vic Douglas, president of the unit, said a co-ordinated ground and air search will begin Saturday. A base camp will be set up at Silver Lake, Ore., and a Forest Service air strip there will be used.

The Klamath flyers think the most likely area is the rugged country flanking Highway 31 between Silver Lake and Highway 97.

Aboard the plane when it disappeared in a snowstorm were Lee Blakkolb, 47, owner and pilot; his wife, Thelma, 39, W. B. Lundstrom, 39, and his wife, Helen, 31. They were returning alone from a Portland Chamber of Commerce flight of private planes to Havana, Cuba, and back.

EXTENSIVE SEARCH

Planes, men on foot and horseback riders will take part in the new search.

Douglas explained that Blakkolb took off from Lakeview, Ore., at noon on the day he disappeared after saying that he would fly to Prineville.

A blinding snowstorm swept Central Oregon that afternoon, and Douglas theorized that the pilot may have decided to follow Highway 31 to Highway 97 and then fly northward instead of following a more direct route.

In support of this belief, he said several reports have been received of a plane flying just above tree-top level in a snowstorm along Highway 31 that day. The last report came from near Fremont, which is 35 miles from the Highway 97 junction.

Ucluelet Man Suffers Cuts During Fracas

UCLUELET, June 14. — Peter Solomon, 40-year-old fisherman suffered face cuts in a fracas on the Ucluelet Indian Reserve Tuesday night.

Constable D. W. Dreaper, B.C. Police officer here, said last night that no charges would be laid in connection with the incident.

A police launch from Port Alberni was sent here to investigate. A rumor that murder had been committed was discounted by police after investigation.

Mill Director Dies, Aged 71

VANCOUVER, June 14 (CP).—A well-known figure in British Columbia lumber circles, 71-year-old Wallace K. Nichols, died yesterday.

Mr. Nichols had been in the lumber business 45 years. He was member of the advisory board of Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., currently locked in contract negotiations with the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.).

He came here from Saskatchewan and Montana in 1930 and at his death was connected with Timber Preserves, Ltd., and Royal City Sawmills, Ltd. He was also a director of Seaboard Lumber Sales Company, Ltd., Seaboard Shipping Company, Ltd., and B.C. Manufacturers' Association.

He will be buried Thursday, and is survived by his widow, two sons, two daughters and several grandchildren.

Counterfeit Ring Cracked Vancouver Police Think

VANCOUVER, June 14 (CP).—A chance tip by a Seattle clerk resulted today in the arrest of two men here and the end, police believe, of an international counterfeiting ring that passed more than $100,000 in forged travelers' cheques in several American cities and Edmonton.

Two Vancouver men, a 39-year-old salesman and a 40-year-old accountant, are held but are not charged. One is wanted by Edmonton police on other charges.

Joint efforts of U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and Vancouver city police managed the arrests.

F.B.I. agents arrived here five days ago, acting after the Seattle clerk jotted down the number of the driver's licence offered as identification by a man passing one of the 44 bogus cheques cashed in Seattle in one day.

Here, city police traced the licence on information of two prowler officers and one man was arrested. Information uncovered in a rent receipt, police said, led to a West-End house where heavy machinery obviously had been stored.

Neighbors complained of heavy motors ruining radio reception.

A neighbor told them that a moving van had called at the house recently and he had happened to notice the firm's telephone number had an East-End district prefix.

Police located the firm and subsequently the new establishment where a $5,000 multi-press, a copying camera, photo-engraving camera chemicals, lights and a printing frame were seized. With it was one sample of a Bank of America traveler's cheque, the type passed in Seattle, Minneapolis, Portland and St. Louis.

Police arrested the second man at the premises.

Checks with other Canadian and American cities are being completed and four boxes of material are being investigated.

Empire Press Union to Change Name As Commonwealth Status Recognized

OTTAWA, June 14 (CP) — The changing status of the British Empire was recognized today by the Empire Press Union in unanimously favoring a change in name to the Commonwealth Press Union.

As one of the first items of business at the seventh Imperial Press Conference, delegates from 15 countries voted to recommend the change to the union's governing council. They stipulated that the change in name would not affect individual memberships of the Crown colonies.

SAFEGUARD RATE

Delegates heard urgings that the penny-a-word rate in intra-Commonwealth press be safeguarded; that air and surface rates for press material be lowered; that newspapers keep abreast of technological developments in their field, and that better training be provided for newspapermen.

A resolution on press communications, drafted for later consideration by the conference in its four days of business sessions, embodied these points:

1. That the penny-a-word cable rate be defended vigorously.

2. That the conference seek appointment by its council of a standing telecommunications committee to watch for new and cheaper methods of transmitting press material.

3. That the I.P.C. recommend various efforts for reduction of freight and mail rates for both press material and newspapers by air and surface route.

On the training of newspapermen the Australian and Indian delegations joined in a resolution calling for provision to be made through the union to facilitate travel by reporters and writers by exchange or other means. This resolution will be considered tomorrow.

In discussion on communications delegates emphasized the [illegible] that freedom of news transmission is an important element in freedom of the press.

Transport Minister Chevrier, in a welcoming address, said free and unfettered dispatch of news would make it easier to interpret peoples and races to each other and thus contribute to peace.

"Had we in these unsettled times the right to send news everywhere and the right to pick up news everywhere," the minister said, "I firmly believe we would have one of the [illegible] deterrents to war."

Mr. Chevrier said the penny press rate within the Commonwealth, which he termed "very definitely [illegible]" [illegible] hoped considerably [illegible] drawing the various countries together.

In the later discussion on communications, Walton Cole, editor of Reuters News Agency, suggested press traffic would not be uneconomic for the communications companies if they took full advantage of advances in transmission techniques such as the greater use of [illegible].

London Posts Plaques On Old Haunts of Great

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 14 (CP).—London has posted up two new literary landmarks in the form of plaques to commemorate the dwelling-places of noted writers.

One disc hangs at 16 John Adam Street, just off the Adelphia, where Thomas Rowlandson, 18th-century satirist, lived. The other marks Grove Lodge, Hampstead, old home of the late [illegible] John Galsworthy.

INTRIGUING INSIGHTS

Glimpsed unexpectedly, the glazed plaques give tourists — and Londoners — intriguing little insights into history. There are 353 of them throughout the city.

Rowlandson's was the 165th put in place by the London County Council. In the "square mile" of the city itself, the Corporation of London has place a further 188.

There are gaps today in the list of be-plaqued sites. War damage razed many buildings once so marked and all but wrecked others. As new buildings rise in their places, the plaques, too, are replaced.

The plaques cost between £25 ($77.50) and £30 to make and put in place, and before one is installed old parish records and the like are checked exhaustively to be sure the correct site is being marked.

NOT ALWAYS POPULAR

Sometimes present owners object to having their buildings marked by plaques which may not match other decorations, but the L.C.C. generally manages to win its argument about installation, although sometimes plaques have to be specially designed to harmonize with their surroundings.

The roster of personalities remembered by plaques is long and varied. Some have more than one disc to mark their old haunts. Novelist Charles Dickens has four, while politician William Ewart Gladstone, poet Dante Gabriel Rossetti, novelist William Makepeace Thackeray and politician Joseph Chamberlain have three each.

Kootenay Indian Given 14 Years

NELSON, B.C., June 14 (CP).—William Swanson, once sentenced to the gallows, today was sentenced to 14 years in prison after conviction on a charge of manslaughter.

The 31-year-old Kootenay Indian was convicted in the death of his wife, Julia, 23, at their reservation home in October, 1948.

Swanson, originally sentenced to be hanged in January, won a new trial from a court of appeal, which ruled the trial judge had erred in his charge to the jury.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW! By Fagaly and Shorten

Take My Word For It
By Frank Colby

READERS' CORNER

Louisville: You make a ridiculous error in stating that the word "restaurant" is French for "restorer." As my Latin professor told me long ago, "restaurant" is from the Latin res, "a thing," plus taurus, "a bull," hence "a bully thing." MC

Answer: Hm.

Leipsic: Regarding your recent discussion of the feminine emotions word "cute," several years ago we had as guests two girls from Virginia. We wanted to take some snapshots. One of them objected, saying, "I don't take a good picture—I'm too cute." We learned that she meant "bowlegged." HS

Answer: Cute for "bowlegged" turns up in my mail regularly. But I have found no record of it other than a mention in The American Thesaurus of Slang (Thomas Y. Crowell Company). I have no idea how the expression originated, nor where.

Philadelphia: How did the nickname "limey" for an Englishman originate? PHK

Answer: In the days of sailing ships, sailors often developed scurvy because of vitamin deficiencies in their monotonous diet. The British Government passed a law making a daily ration of lime juice compulsory on all ships. Among mariners British ships became known as "lime-juicers." Later, British seamen were called "limeys," and in time "limey" became a nickname for any Englishman, a soldier or sailor especially.

Los Angeles: What about the word "benedict," a married man? Mrs. P.W.C.

Answer: It's from the name Benedick, the hero of Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing." The young lord was an avowed bachelor, but finally married Beatrice after a riotous and comical courtship.

Omaha: Where did we get the unlovely sounding word haberdasher? Mrs. D.B.

Answer: One theory is that haberdasher is from an Anglo-French word hapertas, the name of a kind of cloth sold at English notions shops in the 15th century. Another theory is that it is from the Icelandic word hapurtask, a knapsack. The word haberdasher is obscure but in American usage.

In England, a haberdasher is a store where small wares are sold. In America, the term was once commonly applied to men's furnishing stores.

Today's quotation:

Truculent Durocher Insists Stanky More Valuable Than Musial, Williams

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, June 14 (INS)—Leo Durocher, smart, peppery and pugnacious, was in a particularly truculent mood today as he announced:

"The best ball player in the game today is my second baseman, Eddie Stanky."

That rather stunned us for a moment, but after getting our breath back, we asked Leo if a lad named Stan Musial was still playing ball for the Cardinals. And wasn't a fellow named Ted Williams still with the Red Sox? We also suggested that another named Joe DiMaggio was considered pretty fair in some quarters.

"Sure, they're great ball players," Leo admitted. "But I'm talking about their value right now and I insist Stanky is tops. He's the greatest inspirational player in the game. He's smart, he's got guts and on our last Western trip he hit .438. Is that bad? Every time you look up he's on base. How can you find fault with that guy?"

WOULDN'T TRADE

We assured Leo we had no desire to try to find fault with Stanky but just to make sure the Giant pilot was leveling, we asked him if he would trade Stanky for Jackie Robinson, Dodger second sacker, even up.

"No sir," said Leo emphatically, "not for Robinson or anybody else."

Leo thought things over for a moment and then came up with a gripe that is as old as baseball itself—the umpires.

"The other day in St. Louis I told Umpire Goetz that Musial was getting four strikes all the time," said Leo. "Mind you, I'm not questioning the honesty of any one umpire. They all give the great hitters like Musial, DiMaggio and Williams the benefit of the doubt on the close ones.

"If only my own pitchers said this I'd think they were alibi-ing. But you can ask any pitcher in the game and they'll tell you the same thing."

CALL BALL UNCONSCIOUSLY

"The umpires know that great hitters have perfect eyes and they unconsciously call a ball when a great hitter takes one that may be over the corner. The chances are they'd make the correct call against an ordinary batter. I'd probably do the same thing myself, if I were umpiring.

"Here's another thing. The umpires realize that fans don't come out to the ball park to see fellows like Musial, DiMaggio and Williams strike out. The fans want to see them hit and unconsciously the umpires agree with the fans."

Leo may have something there. We recall that Rajah Hornsby, who was painfully honest in everything he said, once told us: "Hitters like me or Babe Ruth get many points on our batting averages that a weak hitter doesn't get. That goes for the umpiring and the scoring.

"Take a banjo hitter lyike Durocher (Leo was then known as the all-American out). He knocks down the third baseman who promptly draws an error. But if the third baseman boots one not half as hard on me or Ruth we get a hit on the grounds that it was too hot to handle."

Having read all this we'd like to ask: Would you trade Stanky for Musial, Williams or DiMaggio? That's what we think, too.

Remember When..

Lew Worsham, 29-year-old pro from Oakmount, Pa., won the United States Open golf championship three years ago today when Sammy Snead, his opponent, missed a 30-inch putt on the 18th hole in a thrilling play-off at St. Louis. A crowd of 5,000 saw the play-off, made necessary when the pair finished the tournament the previous day with 72-hole totals of 282.

Foresees Gate Of $1,000,000 For September

NEW YORK, June 14 (INS)—A million-dollar fight gate in September, with Joe Louis in one corner, was foreseen today by Jim Norris, multi-millionaire head of the International Boxing Club.

"We must have a big outdoor shot in a ball park in September," said Norris, "because only the big fellows can draw important money in a title fight.

"Ezzard Charles was to have been examined for a heart condition in August but I am going to insist that he be examined this month so that we may plan accordingly.

"If Charles gets a medical green light to fight again we shall pit him in with Lee Savold for the undisputed heavyweight championship.

"If Charles is unable to fight, Joe Louis has assured me he will return to the ring. Joe is willing to fight either Charles or Savold.

"Charles and Savold would draw a tremendous gate but Louis in there with either of them surely would draw a million dollars."

Two-year-old Willie Campbell of Lockable, Dumfries, suffering from a rare disease, has only four bananas to keep him alive until Friday night, information received here said.

U.S. B-29 and B-50 Atomic Bombers Engaged in Manoeuvres With Dutch

WASHINGTON, June 14 (INS).—The United States disclosed today that four-engine American B-29 and B-50 "Atomic Bombers" are engaged in mock warfare with Dutch pilots over Netherlands territory in the Atlantic Pact's first big aerial manoeuvre.

The air-exercises were described as a cross-Channel system of training operations with Atlantic Pact countries in the accelerated U.S. drive to make anti-Communist Western Europe defensible.

Military observers pointed out that Russia's best long-range bomber is believed to be almost a duplicate of the B-29, the plane that delivered the world's first A-bomb attack.

CONFERS WITH TRUMAN

Meanwhile, Lord Tedder, Marshal of the British Air Force, conferred with President Truman on U.S. military assistance to the North Atlantic Pact countries.

Tedder told newsmen he is greatly encouraged by the military assistance program and the integration of defence plans by the Pact nations.

The B-29's and B-50's fly from American stations in England to the vicinity of Heligoland, where Dutch pilots attempt to intercept them in mock combat. Motion picture camera guns carried by both fighters and bombers record the results.

The Defence Department said that the exercises are designed to test the efficiency of the Dutch air defence system.

BECOMING PROFICIENT

The announcement added:

"A considerable part of the proposed radar cover over Dutch territory has now been completed and the pilots of the newly-formed Dutch Meteor squadrons have reached a sufficient standard of proficiency in modern interceptor tactics.

"Regular exercises have become possible and are being held."

The department pointed out that joint, cross-channel air exercises, in which the Dutch are scheduled to participate, already have been arranged by the five countries in the Western union.

The announcement said, "it is difficult to overemphasize the importance of this common training in welding together the Western European region air forces and thus considerably increasing their actual effectiveness."

The full extent of the training program was not revealed, but it was assumed that it will be extended to most of the Atlantic Treaty countries in the path of possible aggression.

Visiting American Shriners Stage Parade

Visiting Madison, Wis., Shriners staged parade to Empress Hotel yesterday during brief stopover on way to annual convention at Los Angeles. Clowns, band, and drum and bugle corps added color to the group of visitors. Host here was the local Gizeh Temple, some members of which will attend convention in United States.

U.S. Shriners Pause on Pilgrimage For Serenading, Sightseeing in City

Four hundred and fifty Wisconsin Shriners had a look at Victoria yesterday on the way to the giant 100,000-delegate Shriner convention to be held at Los Angeles July 19-23.

The visitors were members of the Madison Zor Shrine Temple.

Here with them were their drum and bugle corps, chanters, saxophone sextette, Oriental Booster Band, clowns and a 50-piece concert band.

Local Gizeh Temple Shrine secretary James A. Mossop met the Americans at the boat and the entire group paraded to the Empress Hotel for luncheon.

The Zor Chanters and a 20-voice choral group, backed by the saxophone sextette, provided entertainment before lunch. Afterwards the Zor Temple band gave a concert on the lawn of the Empress before the visitors took a bus tour of the city.

The Victoria trip is part of the Madison Shriners' 15-day sightseeing pilgrimage to Los Angeles for the annual session of the Imperial Council of the Shrine. Potentate Otto M. Geloin headed the group.

About 50 local Shriners are expected to attend the annual convention. The Gizeh Temple band will accompany them, under the leadership of bandmaster James Miller.

Rolled Sandwiches

Making rolled sandwiches is easy if you know the basic tricks.

Remove the crusts from a sandwich loaf of bread, and slice it, lengthwise, into nine or ten slices. Spread the filling on each slice, and roll it up like a jelly roll. Wrap the rolls in a damp napkin, and leave for at least one hour. If the day is warm, put them in the ice box.

When ready to serve, slice the rolls crosswise. Each roll should make about six slices. Serve as is, or in some cases, the slices may be toasted. Fillings should be firm, rather than "runny."

B.C. Police May Receive Special Pay on Transfer

MEMBERS of the British Columbia Provincial Police may be given a "severance allowance" when they are transferred into the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, it was reported yesterday.

The allowance would be designed to make up, in a cash settlement, for lower pay they would receive as Mounties.

It is thought that, while it has not been definitely settled, the severance pay plan is one of the items now under consideration by Government authorities as part of the turnover proposal.

Most of the men would get lower pay as Mounties because they now receive a $48-a-month cost of living bonus from the Provincial Government.

Price of Cigarettes Can Provide Schools

A businessman took a few minutes from his work yesterday to give a school teacher a quick lesson in mathematics.

"For less than the cost of a package of cigarettes a year, Greater Victoria can have the kind of school accommodation it needs," said Austin I. Curtis, chairman of the finance committee of the Greater Victoria School Board while talking to an instructor from one of the local high schools.

ENOUGH FOR JOB

"For about 30 cents a year per person in Greater Victoria over the next 20 years, the Greater Victoria School Board will have enough money to finish the job we started in 1947," Mr. Curtis explained. "Three-quarters of the money needed to build five new schools and to make additions to five others has already been raised. The by-law to be voted upon this month will raise $666,400 which is enough to meet the increased cost of making additions to the original plan because of population increases and to offset the tremendous rise in building costs since the school-building program was begun."

Ratepayers in Victoria City and View Royal will vote on the school by-law, June 22. Those in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt will go to the polls June 24.

Urges Caution in Logging to Avoid Fate of Forests in New Zealand

A warning that British Columbia forests may someday be in relatively the same condition as those in New Zealand was voiced yesterday by Sir Robert Holland of Victoria.

Sir Robert who recently returned from a tour of New Zealand told more than 40 members of the Victoria White Cane Club at a Prince Robert House meeting that only about 16 per cent of that country's forests remains.

ONCE RICH IN TIMBER

He told the meeting that at one time New Zealand was very rich in timber reserves but ruthless logging methods and little reforestation had reduced the timber supply to a dangerously low level.

"They are getting hard up for timber, water is short in some sections and there is very little park land left," Sir Robert declared.

He added that unless British Columbia— and especially Vancouver Island—watched its timber reserves the same condition could prevail here.

"It is a moral to us in British Columbia not to squander our forests as we have done in the past," he said.

Sir Robert added that "we are still going down hill and unless that dangerous progress is stopped we will lose one of our most valuable assets."

A peneplain is the theoretical plain formed by an island or continent when erosion has brought the topography to a common level.

Fathers to Get Annual Tribute Next Sunday

Once upon a time, there was a popular song that began, "What's the Matter with Father?" and went on to declare, "He's all right."

In its day, it was the kindest song in circulation about fathers.

Up to 40 years ago, in fact, nobody seemed to care much about Father, as long as he paid the rent and didn't beat Mother. Then, in Spokane, Wash., Mrs. Bruce Dodds persuaded a Ministers' Alliance and the Y.M.C.A. to have a day set aside to honor all fathers. The idea caught on after that first Father's Day church service on the third Sunday of June, 1910. It has been going strong ever since.

Mrs. Dodd's described as a "very spiritual person," was one of six motherless children reared by their father, a civil war veteran. She never forgot the importance of a father in her life, and thought it unfortunate that many people did forget. Her idea of Father's Day was to bring home the realization of his importance without the harsh lesson she had received.

Her objective, to have fatherhood "revered as greatly as motherhood," will be reached—for the day at least— next Sunday.

Bugles Given Right to Stay

LONDON, June 15 (CP).—Bugles will still be blown at British Army barracks despite Parliamentary protests, says War Secretary John Strachey.

He was replying to members who described the blowing of bugles in barracks as a "barbarian uproar."

Group Captain C. A. B. Wilcock, Labor Member for Derby North, said in the Commons that at Wellington Barracks in London bugles were blown at Reveille, at dinner time and on going to bed.

Strachey, denying that there was any bugle-call at bedtime, said "people often need to be reminded when it was time to get up and they like to hear when it is dinner time."

Parksville to Encourage Outdoor Theatre Plays

PARKSVILLE, June 14.—Parksville and District Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the newly-formed Parksville Players which will arrange outdoor theatre productions this Summer. It was also decided to sponsor the Errington Development Association.

A resolution was passed that a protest be sent to the Provincial Department of Public Works concerning the laying off of men in the district.

In response to a request from the Parksville Retail Merchants' Association, it was decided to amalgamate the organization as a committee of the Chamber of Commerce, retaining the officers of the committee.

PREMIER ON TOUR

W. W. Shelly announced that Premier Byron Johnson would visit Parksville on June 28, and expressed the hope that a good delegation of members would attend a luncheon at the Island Hall Hotel on that day.

A protest will be forwarded to the B.C. Telephone Company in regard to the delay in supplying telephone service in some parts of the district. Several members complained they had waited as long as three years for a telephone. It was decided to ask a representative of the company to explain the situation.

The finance committee will make arrangements for a community sale early in August.

W. A. Paterson reported that the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund had passed the $400 mark. Next Chamber of Commerce meeting will be held on September 11.

Large Catches Reach Plants

PORT ALBERNI, June 14.—Large catches of salmon are reported on the West Coast of Vancouver Island. Main fishing is off Ucluelet on the southwest bank.

A long line of West Coast trollers was in Port Alberni last week-end and the Port Alberni Fish Company handled more than 25,000 pounds of fine salmon at the local plant.

B.C. Packers, Ltd., had its hands full at Gregory's Dock, and many trucks and refrigerator carloads left for Vancouver and Eastern centres.

It is many years since so many spring salmon have been landed at Port Alberni, and the shipping of salmon through this port adds many thousands of dollars to the community payroll.

Troller Caper Runs Aground

PORT ALBERNI, June 14.—A report reached here that the American troller Caper had been pulled off the beach at Schooner Cove by the Bamfield lifeboat, captained by John Luginoff.

It appears the owner of the vessel had anchored offshore and gone to sleep. During the night the vessel dragged her anchor and drifted ashore.

Campbell River to Lease Big Dock

CAMPBELL RIVER, June 14.—Commissioner Dr. Richard Murphy gave notice at a meeting of the Campbell River Village Commission that he intended to introduce a by-law at the next session recommending the commission lease the wharf and fishermen's floats from the Dominion Government. Such a course was suggested by the Dominion Department of Public Works earlier in the year.

Light on the floats have been connected with the village street lighting system.

It was decided to post notice of intention to extend village boundaries to include the new Campbell River School and surrounding property.

Announcement was made of a special meeting next week to adopt a garbage collection by-law and an amendment to the water by-law. They will be sent to the Department of Municipal Affairs for approval.

—WANT ROAD WORK

It was agreed to interview the resident engineer of the Provincial Department of Public Works at Courtenay in regard to the possibility of surfacing parts of several village streets when the Island Highway is repaired.

Sixth Avenue, between Thulin Street and Alder Street, was ordered closed to traffic.

A trades licence was issued to San Carlos Auto Court, located at North Campbell River.
